Governors To Church Convention Tonight

G. I. Haworth In Address On Aid For The Aged

Dr. Harry L. Ice, Kansas City, was elected president of the 1940 convention of the Missouri Disciples of Christ, at this morning's session of the 101st annual convention, in session at the First Christian church this city.

Other officers elected are: First vice president, Judge Will H. D. Green, West Plains; second vice president, Mrs. C. R. Noel, Paris; secretary, Dr. John Stuart Mill, Kansas City. Dr. Mill, formerly of Sedalia, was elected for the eighth successive year. He has been in this particular kind of church work for twenty-six years.

Members of the state board named are: Dr. C. E. Lemmon, Columbia, J. B. Robertson, Mexico; Rev. Wayne Green, Liberty, Rev. Jas. Todd, Trenton and Mrs. A. W. Kokendoffer, Sedalia.

Governors Tonight

Because Governor Lloyd C. Stark of Missouri, plans to attend the National Home Show and Exposition while in Sedalia tonight, the hour for the men's banquet at the First Christian church was changed from 6 to 5:45 o'clock.

Attending this banquet will be the governors of Missouri and Kansas, and after the banquet Governor Stark will present his neighboring governor, Payne H. Ratner of Parsons, who will deliver an address.

Judge Will H. D. Green, of West Plains, will be toastmaster at the banquet.

The governors are expected to arrive in the city just in time to go direct to the church.

The banquet is a men's repast and any Sedalia man interested may attend by securing tickets at the church.

Hopkins Speaker

The outstanding speaker of today's sessions is Robert M. Hopkins, Indianapolis, Ind., who was called to the office of president of the United Christian Missionary Society of the Disciples of Christ. He spoke this morning of world conditions, particularly in India. Referring to Ghandi he spoke in complimentary terms of him, stating that while Ghandi is a non-Christian, he claims he received his inspiration for his teachings from the Sermon on the Mount, and will stand by his principles even if it means starvation.

Haworth Speaks

Saying that the public generally has been misinformed regarding the underlying principles of the old age assistance program in Missouri, George I. Haworth, of Columbia, state social security administrator, told the 101st annual convention of the Missouri Disciples of Christ that "Missouri cannot afford to set up an old age pension system."

By a pension system, Haworth explained, he meant the giving to every person over a certain age, regardless of need, a share of the old-age pension funds.

The social security administrator spoke Thursday night at a banquet given by the Missouri Christian Missionary Society, meeting in conjunction with the Disciples of Christ. He is general president of this convention and a minister of the First Christian church in Columbia.

Would Cost Too Much

To give all the aged persons in Missouri a pension, Haworth said, would cost the state $144,000,000 each biennium, or more than three times the total amount the sales tax produces now.

"I do not need to tell you" he continued, "that to triple the sales tax would not produce three times the present revenue, since such a

Mrs. Mary Quinn Dies On Thursday

Long-Time Resident Of Sedalia Passes At Family Home

Mrs. Mary Helen Quinn, wife of James P. Quinn, died at the family home, 708 West Fifth street, about 9 o'clock Thursday night, after an illness of several months.

Mrs. Quinn was born in Covington, Ky., in 1875, a daughter of John and Ellen Younger. The family moved to St. Joseph, then to Kansas City, in which place the deceased was reared.

When a young woman she was located in Sedalia for a time, and while here met Mr. Quinn. They were married at St. Patrick's church, Kansas City, in 1904, by the then pastor, Father Thomas F. Lillis, who later became Bishop of the Kansas City diocese. Her entire married life was spent in Sedalia where Mr. Quinn is manager of the Quinn Shoe store.

Husband Survives

Surviving are her husband; one son, James P. Quinn, Jr., of Kansas City, a member of the law firm of Johnson, Garnett and Quinn, and three brothers, John L. Younger and Thomas A. Younger, Kansas City, and Edward L. Younger, Chicago. Her mother, Mrs. Ellen Younger, who resided with her daughter here for many years, died in 1934. A brother-in-law, Monsignor William Quinn died a year ago last Sunday.

Mrs. Quinn was a devout member of Sacred Heart church and belonged to the Altar Society of that church.

Funeral services will be held at Sacred Heart church, at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, Rev. Father Christian Daniel to officiate.

Selected Own Pallbearers

Last March 1 Mrs. Quinn selected friends whom she desired to serve as pallbearers, leaving their names on a slip of paper for her son. They are, John McGrath, Burns McGinley, Gene Sullivan, Henry Salveter, John McCullough and Harold Dean, the latter a nephew by marriage, of Kansas City.

Interment will be in Calvary cemetery.

The rosary will be recited at the Quinn home at 8 o'clock tonight.

Resigns As Home Agent Of County

Mrs. Claire L. Montgomery, Pettis County Home Demonstration agent, has accepted the offer of home demonstration agent for Texas county, with headquarters at Houston, effective May 1.

Announcement of Mrs. Montgomery's resignation was made here this morning.

Mrs. Montgomery came to Pettis county as its first home demonstration agent in March, 1928. She pioneered in the work here, organized the women's community clubs throughout the county, worked with the boys and girls, until today Pettis county ranks among the first in the state in rural activities.

Mrs. Montgomery is especially fitted for the new position to which she goes. She rates exceptionally high among the workers in the Missouri Agricultural Extension Service, particularly in organization ability.

Her experience will be valuable to Texas County which is one of the largest counties in the state, and where she becomes its first home demonstration agent.

KANSAS CITY, April 28.—(AP)—Carroll C. Coffen, 56, apartment house manager convicted of manslaughter in the fatal shooting of Earl Matthews, 14, last December 2, was sentenced to serve two years in the state penitentiary.

Conference Of BTU Opens At Baptist Church

Dr. C. I. Hudson One Of The Principal Speakers Today

Discussing all phases of church work officers and workers of the Baptist church are holding a Missouri Baptist Training Union conference at the First Baptist church here today and Saturday. At noon two hundred twenty-eight persons had registered, and many more are expected this afternoon and Saturday.

J. C. Hockett, Jr., of Kansas City is presiding over the sessions, and this morning songs were led by Dr. W. Morris Ford, of Kansas City with Mrs. Edwin U. Monroe accompanist.

Dr. Clay I. Hudson of Nashville, Tenn., in delivering a very fine message addressed the officers and workers on the facts, factors and factory of Baptist Training Union.

W. A. Harrell, of Nashville, spoke on strengthening the church forces and responsibilities of a pastor, while Rev. T. L. Holcolm, also of the Nashville headquarters stressed the value of religion and the meaning of soul winning.

This afternoon session reconvened at 2 o'clock, with a program of speakers and music.

All sessions are open to the public and those interested in church and Sunday school work, both for young people and adults, will find the program certainly worth while.

Suspect Escapes At County Jail

August Sigman, believed to be of Keytesville, Mo., taken to the county jail Thursday by Sergeant Paul Corl, of the state highway patrol, to be held for questioning with reference to some cattle rustling, escaped between midnight and 1 o'clock this morning. Leaving the jail with him was Robert Lake, arrested by Sedalia police April 23, and given thirty days on a vagrancy charge.

There were nineteen prisoners in the jail Thursday night. In big four, alone, was Jack Herndon held for a sanity test today. Mrs. Grace Betchel was in the women's quarters, also held for a sanity test. A juvenile was being kept in the sheriff's quarters. When Sigman was brought in it was not believed safe to let him share quarters with Herndon in big four, and rather than permit him to have the freedom of the jail corridors with other prisoners he was placed in a small, dark, almost unused cell. To insure safety Jailer John Starkey said that he bought a new chain and chained the prisoner to the bars.

The lower part of the bars, he said, were rusty, and with help he probably received from prisoners in the corridor Sigman succeeded in bending the bars until they broke, then bent them apart until he had a space large enough to crawl through.

It was not a hard matter then for him to tear a hole in the ceiling from the top of big four, get into the attic, and escape through a ventilator. Lake escaped the same way, according to prisoners.

When Sigman's breakfast, and that of Lake, was passed into the jail this morning they were received by other prisoners, and the escape of the two men was not discovered until noon.

Their absence has been broadcast and both men have been fingerprinted, with the prints on file.

Story Hour at Library

The story hour will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning at the Library. Miss Mary Dix Van Doran will tell the stories.

Social Security Head

George I. Haworth, of Columbia, social security administrator for Missouri, who spoke last night at the 101st annual convention of the Missouri Disciples of Christ here.

Finds Currency In Ball Of Yarn

CALIFORNIA, Mo., April 28.—(AP)—This is a yarn about yarn and $25.

Sam Ziehmer, who superintends the rag picking machine at the Moniteau Woolen Mills, cut up a ball of yarn because it was too large—14 inches in circumference—to go into the machine. In the core he found fifteen $1 bills and two $5 bills.

His deduction was that some person sent the yarn with $25 to pay the knitter of a garment but that the yarn, with the money, inside was tossed into the rag bag.

Governor Be At Home Show

Governor Lloyd C. Stark plans to be at the Home Show and Exposition at the coliseum on the Missouri State Fair grounds some time between 8:15 o'clock and 8:30 o'clock tonight.

Friends will be at the First Christian church, and as soon as the governor has finished his introduction of Governor Ratner, of Kansas, he will be taken immediately to the coliseum.

The governor will not arrive until about 5:45 o'clock, the banquet hour.

But Few Days On Farm Plan

Total Of 1,735 Had Signed Up By The Last Week End

The total number of Pettis county farmers who have signed the 1939 AAA Farm Plan up to last Saturday was 1735, reports Elbert F. Rissler, chairman of the Pettis County Agricultural Conservation Association. This number represents approximately 57 per cent of the farmers in Pettis county.

In addition, a large number of farmers have signed requests for inspection for wheat parity and corn parity payments. Reports at the present time would indicate that nearly 80 per cent of the farmers in Pettis county will either receive a wheat or corn parity payment or an Agricultural Conservation payment.

C. W. Sheppard, chairman of the Missouri Agricultural Conservation Committee reports that more farmers are expected to participate in the 1939 Agricultural Conservation Program than in any year since the beginning of the farm programs in 1933. A recent statement of Secretary of Agriculture, Henry A. Wallace, based on reports of intended participation from the states discloses that 85 per cent of all farm families in the United States would receive AAA payments in 1939.

As recently announced, farmers have only until May 1 to express their intention of participating in the 1939 program by making out a Farm Plan. Complete participation in the program will make it possible for the farmer to earn:

A payment of 15c per bushel on the normal yield of corn allotment. This payment is divided into a conservation payment of 9c per bushel and a price adjustment payment of 6c per bushel. However the 15c per bushel is payable only in the commercial corn area. Pettis county is in the commercial corn area.

A payment of 28c per bushel on the normal yield of his wheat allotment. The wheat payment is divided into a conservation payment of 17c per bushel and a price adjustment payment of 11c per bushel.

Approximately $1.10 per acre on his general crop allotment which includes depleting crops such as oats, rye, barley, and grain sorghums.

Special payments for carrying out soil building practices such as liming, terracing, contouring, and with seeding of grasses and legumes.

Mr. Rissler points out that there is only a short time left for farmers to complete and sign the Farm plan for participation in the program. All farmers intending to participate should see their county AAA committeemen at once if they have not already done so.

Dr. Phillips Is Guest Speaker

Interesting Talk To S-C Students At Assembly Hour

Dr. C. A. Phillips, director of teachers training at the University of Missouri, was the guest speaker at the special Smith-Cotton Senior High School assembly this morning.

Dr. Phillips opened his talk by congratulating the student body on being Americans and living here instead of some where else in the world.

He referred the frequent reference to the "good old days" saying that as far as he could remember there were the same economic problems as at present.

Describing the conditions in Italy and Germany was another topic and he told the assembly that in Italy possibly all of the student boys, if they were living there, would be training for war, and if in Germany, the same rule would apply there.

Totaling the entire number of men and women going to college in the United States, Dr. Phillips remarked that there were more students in college here than in all the other countries together.

Problem of Youth

The production of major things on which we live was, he said, the great problem for the youth today. He added that as long as we live there will always be some five or six million people who will be dependent on others in order to live.

He spoke of the new problem that everyone is continually facing today, and that is propaganda. He challenged the students to be brilliant enough to always sift the worthy part of the propaganda from that which is the great mass of untruth.

Varying his speech slightly he spoke of the large number of automobile accidents here in our country, and he said that one of the three most eminent psychologists in the United States today, who is head of the department of psychology in the University of Chicago, who had made a thorough study of the automobile accidents and their causes, found that no man or woman, no matter how intelligent he or she is will be a safe driver at fifty miles an hour or more.

He mentioned his reluctance to picking up hitch hikers along the country's highways. A generation ago our ancestors would not have hesitated in picking up the fed "hitch hikers" of those days, but with the crime and accidents accruing today, people would rather pass individuals than take a chance on driving them somewhere and perhaps he harmed in doing so.

Toward the end of the talk he said," I don't think there's any escape from a great Eureopean war."

Concluding his talk Dr. Phillips again congratulated the students on being Americans.

Trade Is Ahead Of A Year Ago

NEW YORK. April 28.—(AP)—On average volume the past week's retail trade was substantially ahead of the like period last year, and in addition there were "encouraging signs of an improvement in business sentiment," said the Dun and Bradstreet weekly review today.

"With price decreases restricting the advance," asserted the review, "the rise in retail dollar volume over a year ago was estimated at no more than 4 to 7 per cent. On a regional basis gains over last year slightly outweighed losses."

Kenyon Goes To Doom With Prayer On Lips

Killer Of Dr. J. C. B. Davis Executed In Lethal Chamber

JEFFERSON CITY, April 28—(AP)—With a prayer on his lips, a skinny little Ozarks farm youth died in Missouri's lethal gas chamber early today for the slaying of Dr. J. C. B. Davis, the country doctor he kidnaped for an uncollected $5,000 ransom.

Robert Kenyon, the 22-year-old kidnaper who fought in the courts almost to the day of his death to escape execution, was outwardly calm as he entered the "tank" shortly after midnight.

One gasp escaped him as the deadly fumes filled the airtight room and he was dead in five minutes—the tenth victim of the gas chamber.

Son at Execution

"He took it like I thought he would," said H. C. Davis of Sedalia, only son of the slain physician," and a witness of the execution. "He killed my dad in cold blood and I didn't expect him to take it any other way."

The largest crowd to witness any Missouri prison execution peered through the glass windows of the gas chamber to watch Kenyon die. A group from Howell county—including the sheriff who investigated the Davis kidnaping and the lawyer who prosecuted Kenyon—was among the witnesses. Several members of the state legislature also watched the execution.

Kenyon, who confessed he killed the prominent, moderately wealthy physician because he had no place to hold him during the ransom negotiations, spent most of his last day with the prison chaplain. He visited with relatives during the afternoon.

Dr. Davis was called from his home on a sick call the night of January 26, 1937 and never was seen alive again. Kenyon, arrested several days after the doctor's disappearance, told a bizarre story of having been forced to participate in a kidnap plot against the physician.

After Dr. Davis' body was found in a countryside pond Kenyon admitted he abducted the doctor as part of a scheme to get $5,000 so he could marry his sweetheart.

Loses Fight for Life

Kenyon asked to see the chaplain as he stepped into the gas chamber but a prison official told him the request could not be granted then.

Kenyon's last hope for life glimmered at sundown when Gov. Lloyd C. Stark declared, "nothing will be done." The Ozark Youth's attorney gave up a long legal fight to save him yesterday after an unsuccessful plea for a Federal court writ of habeas corpus.

Prison officials said the young hill country farmer was outwardly composed as he said goodbye to relatives during the afternoon. He visited with his parents yesterday while his lawyer made the last desperate legal move against execution.

Mrs. Stanley Is Struck By Auto

Mrs. A. D. Stanley, 711 West Broadway, suffered a slight concussion and several bruises and contusions on her body about 6 o'clock Thursday evening, when she was struck by a car driven by Rush A. Moseby, 409 East Fifth street. She was taken, in a car, to the Bothwell hospital where it was found her condition was not serious. She will probably be taken home Saturday.

Mrs. Stanley had started to cross Broadway from the home of Mrs. A. L. Shortridge, 720 West Broadway to her own home on the south side of Broadway. Mr. Moseby, driving a Ford car, had turned from the south side of Grand avenue, east on Broadway. He stopped and assisted Mrs. Stanley into the car of a passing motorist and went to the hospital with her.

Hitler Reply To U. S. Embassy

BERLIN, April 28.—(AP)—The text of Adolf Hitler's Reichstag speech was handed to the United States embassy today as the chancellor's official reply to President Roosevelt's peace appeal of April 14.

Raymond Geist, charge d'affaires, received the text, it was announced officially.

German charges d'affaires in London and Warsaw also delivered to the British and Polish governments memoranda notifying them, respectively, of the cancellations of the Anglo-German naval treaty and the German-Polish non-aggression pact.

Hitler had announced these steps in his Reichstag address.

Hitler Tries To Allay War Fears In Long Address

Reply Given To Peace Appeal Of Roosevelt

Highlights In Hitler Answer

BERLIN, April 28—(AP)—Following are highlights of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's answer today to President Roosevelt's peace proposals:

Non-Aggression

"The German government is prepared to give to each of the (31) states named (by Roosevelt) an assurance of the kind desired by Mr. Roosevelt on the condition of absolute reciprocity provided that the state wishes it and itself adresses to Germany a request for such an assurance together with appropriate proposals.

"Germany is willing to make terms (concerning duration) with each individual state in accordance with the wishes of that state."

America

". . . I here solemnly declare that all the assertions which have been circulated in any way concerning an impending German attack or invasion on or in American territory are rank frauds and gross untruths . . ."

British-German Naval Treaty

"Since England today . . . upholds the view that Germany should be opposed under all circumstances and confirms this by the policy of encirclement known to us, the basis for the naval treaty has been removed . . .

Some Distrust Declaration Of The Fuehrer

Others Express The Hope Peace In Europe Enhanced

WASHINGTON, April 28.—(AP)—Senator Borah (R-Idaho), dean of the senate's foreign relations committee, said today "it seems to me" that Hitler regarded his speech in the Reichstag "as ending the matter of further world peace discussions."

At the state department, Secretary Hull studied press dispatches on the speech but, since the department had announced previously it would not regard it as a formal reply to President Roosevelt's written peace proposals, there was no comment.

Some legislators expressed frank disappointment at the tone of Hitler's answer to the plea for ten years of peace in Europe. Others called the speech "blustering" and "bluffing."

"It appears to me," said Senator Connally (D-Tex), a member of the senate foreign relations committee, "that the President's intervention has borne some fruit. Hitler's answer has given some encouragement to those who hope for peaceful settlement of Europe's difficulties."

On the other hand, Rep. Bloom (D-NY), acting chairman of the house foreign affairs committee, said that Hitler "in one breath says he wants peace for the whole world and in the next breath makes a virtual ultimatum to Poland."

Rep. Carlson (R-Kas): "Our problem is at home and we should try to straighten out our economic situation and not try to police the world."

Rep. Dingell (D-Mich): "I regarded Hitler's speech as a blus-

Poland Deems Denunciation Of Pact A 'Bluff'

BERLIN, April 28—(AP)—Chancellor Hitler today replied with ironic argument and denial to President Roosevelt's peace pledge proposal but said Germany was willing to exchange non-aggression pledges with her neighbors.

He advised President Roosevelt in carefully chosen but respectful words that nations directly concerned should determine the matter and added that evidently no nation had asked for American protection against Germany.

Hitler served notice on Great Britain that he was renouncing the 1935 naval pact and told Poland that he considered the 1934 ten-year-German-Polish non-aggression pact was ended.

He said Poland violated the pact by mobilizing troops when Germany had no intention of attacking her.

Hitler pointedly asked Roosevelt to fulfill "the promises" of President Wilson "that German colonial claims would receive just examination."

The chancellor reminded Roosevelt that Germany followed the American lead in rejecting conferences and cited the United States' refusal to join the league of nations.

He delved into history to show that for hundreds of years the United States and other nations settled their differences by arms instead of by conference.

The German government viewed the speech as Hitler's official reply to the president's message and as such its text was handed to Raymond H. Geist, United States charge d'affaires, for transmission to Washington.

(High quarters in Washington indicated yesterday that the speech as delivered orally would not be considered an adequate reply and that a written answer would be expected.)

It was announced that official notices of the renunciation of the Anglo-German naval accord and the German-Polish non-aggression pact were delivered to the London and Warsaw governments.

Specific Assurances

Specific assurances of peaceful intent toward the United States and the Americas generally were offered by the German chancellor in a two hour, 17 minute oration to the reichstag in the Kroll Opera house, his reply to the Roosevelt message.

He reiterated Germany's demands for return of her war-lost colonies thus:

"The only claim I have ever made and shall continue to make

Proposes Slash In State Patrol

JEFFERSON CITY, April 28.—(AP)—Rep. H. P. Lauf, (D), Jefferson City, moved in the house today to clash the highway patrol from its present strength of 115 men to 50.

He made his proposal as an amendment of a bill offered by Rep. Ed R. Caldwell (D), Ralls County, to add 50 men to the patrol, increasing its personnel to 165.

In a hot debate on the amendment, Lauf charged that the agency had "flagrantly" violated the statute creating it by engaging in work other than enforcement of highway traffic laws.

"If we want a state constabulary to engage in all sorts of criminal detection and law enforcement, let's be honest about it and change the statute." the Cole County member shouted.

The house adjourned for the week-end without acting on Lauf's proposal or completing perfection of the bill after Rep. W. O. Hanks (D), Joplin, questioned the presence of a quorum.

Does College Pay?

That question has been asked by more and more anxious parents in recent years. Does it pay in dollars and cents, that is.

Best and strongest light ever thrown on the question, perhaps, now comes from a study by the U. S. Office of Education, which compiled data from 31 colleges, coverings 46,000 alumni graduated between 1928 and 1935.

Here are some of the more interesting things revealed:

1. Of the men, 58 per cent, and of the women, 61 per cent have never been unemployed since graduation. Ninety-eight per cent of the men and 99 per cent of the women have never been on relief. Ninety six per cent of the men, and 93 per cent of the women reporting are today either temporarily or permanently employed, though many took a year or two to connect with the job.

2.The average typical college man one year out of school is making about $1314 a year, and after eight years he has climbed to $2383. For women the average salaries were, first year $1092; eighth year $1606.

3. Nearly two-thirds of the graduates go into professions, and after eight years about 19 per cent are owners or part owners of their businesses. More than half gravitate into cities of 100,000 population or over.

4. Of married alumni in the group surveyed, 57 per cent of the men, and 61 per cent of the women report no children. To 12,233 men graduates were born 7727 children; to 6359 women graduates were born 3463. The divorce rate among college graduates is lower than among people in general.

There's your picture. A young fellow goes to college. He graduates at about 22. He gets a job fairly quickly at about $25 a week. Not much, maybe, but better than the income of the average wage-earner. After eight years he's married, getting about $45, with less than a 50-50 chance of having children to support. There is one chance in five that by that time he'll be his own boss.

That's pretty good proof that the pre-depression picture of the value of college has vanished. In those days it was: graduate, become a bond salesman, and make a million within five years.

Today the picture is less flamboyant and very much more realistic. The college degree today is no touchstone, no guarantee of monetary success. It never was.

The greatest value of the college diploma today, as always, must be sought in other places than the pocketbook, in other values than those which may be set down in a checkbook.

The other day, a hen laid a dozen eggs in rapid-fire order, then died. Just saving the life of the owner, who was getting frantic as he saw the price going down.

Vacationists now must pay for admission to national parks. That makes it complete. Now not even the view is free.

Some movie names are said to be included in a Hollywood narcotics investigation. Undoubtedly one of them must be Dopey.

Franco is acting to rebuild the Spanish railways. That's like the kid who knocks down his house of blocks so he can build it up again.

There will be no war in Europe. You can bank on that.—James Wilson, adviser to International Labor Organization at Geneva.

Anti-Dictator Dictator

Everybody knows that many South American countries, nominally republics, fall short of the highest ideals of free government.

But as has been repeatedly pointed out, the dictatorships that exist there are of a local and home-grown variety which do not necessarily emulate or even feel sympatheic to those of Europe.

For instance, Col. German Busch, in arbitrarily taking up dictatorial power in Bolivia, announced that "he saw with pain" Fascist and Nazi tendencies "which are not acceptable in this country." Yet his act in becoming dictator forestalled an election May 4, in which three liberal parties had combined in a way that gave them a chance of being elected.

Busch said quite flatly that Bolivia is to have neither "right" nor "left" government, but Busch government.

That is rather typical of South American governments which lapse from the democratic ideal. Even their most iron-fisted dictators are pretty likely to fight to the last ditch any foreign encroachment, including that of European dictators.

Another Birthday

Not long ago, the 50th birthday of Adolf Hitler was marked.

So great a stir it made, that another anniversary passed almost unnoticed a few days later. It was the 375th anniversary of the birth of William Shakespeare.

Yet there is reason to hope that when the clanking militarists and chest-thumping dictators have passed into mere shadows on the pages of history, Shakespeare will still stride onward, his stature undiminished in every domain where men still think and feel.

They will still read the words Shakespeare put in the mouth of Cassius and wonder how free men so long submitted to tyranny. Cassius:

"Why, man, he doth bestride the narrow world
"Like a Colossus, and we petty men
"Walk under his huge legs and peep about
"To find ourselves dishonorable graves . . .
"Now, in the name of all the gods at once,
"Upon what meat doth this our Caesar feed
"That he is grown so great? Age, thou are shamed!"

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — Most significant fact about Hitler's reply to Roosevelt is that he waited from April 14 to April 28 to deliver it.

Hitler is a man of quick action and it takes only 24 hours to summon the Reichstag. They click to heel like toy soldiers to hear his speeches. Moreover, it did not take him all of two weeks to draft a reply—though the Roosevelt message did put him in a hole for a day or two and forced him to resort to the clever strategy of asking smaller nations whether they really feared Germany.

However, the date of April 28 had been fixed as a crucial Nazi date well before Roosevelt sent his message. What fixed it were two naval and military factors far more important than Hitler histrionics.

One was the time required to get the German fleet through the English Channel and down to the coast of Spain. Roosevelt's message was sent just after the German fleet quietly slipped out of Kiel, and Hitler couldn't have afforded a showdown until his ships got safely past the Channel bottle-neck and beyond the home waters of the powerful British fleet.

Once they are in Spanish waters they can prey upon British shipping—in case of war—with much less risk.

Second was the fact that the German army, according to previously scheduled plans, needed about a week after Hitler's birthday celebration—or until April 28—to concentrate its forces in strategic areas.

In other words, Roosevelt's peace proposal has staved off war, but probably caused no real change in the Axis plans except to force Fascist-Nazi leaders to spread more propaganda to discount it with the German and Italian peoples. Most people in those countries have little idea of the imminent danger of war.

FRD's Oversight

Those who looked over Roosevelt's message to Hitler and Mussolini before he sent them now wish they had suggested one change. That was to omit the names of the countries which Roosevelt listed as in danger from aggression.

Had the list been omitted, Hitler would have been deprived of his effective strategy of asking those countries if they really feared Germany. This was a tough question to ask a nation in constant danger of German domination, either by force or economic pressure.

Mussolini's Misses

Confidential diplomatic reports indicate worry upon the part of high Italian Fascists over Mussolini's fondness for the company of young girls.

U. S. officials did not believe it at first, but recently Mussolini's love affairs have been the talk of the entire Rome diplomatic corps.

Il Duce's chief interest is in girls younger than his own daughters. One young lady of about eighteen, of whom he is especially enamoured, is seen with him constantly. On the golf course she orders him around as Hitler would a Storm Trooper.

Colonies Next

One important key to A. Hitler's next move is the fact that preparations are being made in Berlin to send German officials to take over the returned German colonies by mid-June.

This indicates how confident Der Fuehrer is that his bloodless conquests will continue without interruption, despite the finger-shaking from London.

His policy is going to be to take all the territory he can in Europe, short of precipitating a war. If the democracies actually get stubborn, indicate that they have finished with appeasement and mean business, then Hitler always has up his sleeve a conference on the return of Germany's pre-war colonies.

This is something which makes sense to Americans, who never were sympathetic to the French and British grab for African colonies after the World War. So Hitler's move in this direction might get a certain amount of cheering from the sidelines across the Atlantic, which would be highly disconcerting to the British.

Chamberlain's Umbrella

The general public may have missed it, but diplomats attached significance to the fact that the King of Great Britain sent a birthday message to Hitler while Roosevelt did not.

In this one small matter you get the key to the difference between the Roosevelt and Chamberlain policies.

The President long ago sized up Hitler as one who understood only one thing—the international straight-arm, while Chamberlain, despite press reports to the contrary, still is talking a little appeasement on the side.

The return of Sir Nevile Henderson as British Ambassador to Berlin was an example. This move aroused no sympathy in the White House. Ambassador Henderson is a well-known Nazi sympathizer, and once remarked to the Austrian Ambassador at a Berlin reception, long before the march on Vienna, that the sooner Germany swallowed Austria the better.

Chief effect of Hendersons return to Berlin and of King George's birthday greeting to Hitler has been to create doubt in the minds of smaller countries which Chamberlain has been trying to bring into the Democratic Encirclement. They don't know now whether Chamberlain means business or not.

General distrust of British policy is the big factor behind Rumanian vacillation. Also the Polish-British alliance hangs by a very slender thread, despite bold British headlines to the contrary. If and when Hitler marches into Danzig, it looks less and less likely that the British will fight.

BORDER ADVENTURE

BY OREN ARNOLD
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday: Fearing trouble for Betty Mary, the officers trail her to Juarez, where they meet her in a cafe and she introduces them to Luis Barro himself.

CHAPTER XII

THE situation—such as he knew of it—appealed at once to Luis Barro's keen sense of humor. Here were his two sworn enemies, Border Patrolmen from the U. S. A., coerced by a pretty girl into dining with him socially in a picturesque cafe. Moreover, she was actually making them pose with him, cowboy hats and all!

"Just sit between the two ranchers, Don Luis, there's a dear!" she was saying. "Like three friends. I can title this one 'Hands Across the Frontier' or something like that; you symbolizing Mexico, and the ranchmen symbolizing the United States. Just put an arm around each Texan's shoulders—like this. There! There's a dear! You are three friends now. But goodness, you American gentlemen look so glum! It isn't that painful, is it, hunh?" She looked coyly at them.

Hope glared back and glanced at Sherry. She could tell that both of them were boiling from within, about to burst. Deep in her heart, she was enjoying this, although she realized the more serious aspects of the situation full well.

"They are suffering from thee—how you say?—stage fright?" Don Luis suggested, grinning. "They are not use to thee posing, eh? Weeth Luis Barro, anyway." He ended with a laugh, and Betty Mary joined him.

"Big bashful boys," she agreed. "They probably realize that a Mexican gentleman — caballero—dresses more charmingly than our American styles permit, Don Luis. But the contrast will heighten my picture."

* * *

SHE was busily sketching all the while and shortly she had a fairly creditable likeness of all three, in their strangely intimate pose. From two different angles of awareness, she and Barro were thoroughly enjoying the little drama. It served the boys right for trailing her over here, she was thinking. If they had let her alone she would have begun wangling valuable information from Barro himself, maybe. They needn't think they had to hover over her all the time, as if she were a helpless little chick! She kept her dimples flashing, her talk happy and gay.

Meanwhile, too, she was writing a message.

She had taken a small piece of drawing paper, and after ostentatiously rubbing her pencil on it to give a sharp point, she held it on her drawing pad out of sight of the three men. On it she penciled words when she appeared to be sketching.

"Stop hounding me! (she wrote) I am in no danger. But if you must keep touch with me, watch my hotel window. Fourth floor, Montezuma, northeast corner room. I can—" She paused to hold out her pencil as if measuring for perspective.

"Hold the chin up just a little more, Don Luis, please. . . . There! It adds dignity and strength of character, and high-lights your features better. Oh, I bet I just ruined your meal. Were you so hungry? An artist is selfish, I am afraid."

He protested that it was a pleasure, a rare pleasure, to pose for her, and she resumed her writing:

"—can see El Paso plainly, even Border Patrol headquarters, from my window. I will hang two white handkerchiefs or two white towels there as long as I am safe. When you see them you needn't worry about me. If I ever need help then I will hang three white towels or something. Or two-for-safety, three-for-help, anyway, any time. I may stay a long time. Aren't we having fun tonight, golly golly? You both look so sweet posing with your new boy friend!"

The note covered a paper no larger than her hand, and she wrote it so that nobody could possibly have suspected what she was doing. Next, though, she faced the problem of delivering it.

* * *

SHE realized that this cafe, The Place of the Sleeping Monk, might be a hangout of Barro's, that any one of the waiters or diners might see her deliver the note.

Talking and laughing with Don Luis, she spread the little note again and added one more line.

"Barro is making love to me."

In her lap, then, she folded it into a missive no larger, save for thickness, than a postage stamp. She could easily hold it unseen in the hand with her pencil. She sketched on for a few minutes.

"I'm about done—were any of you in a hurry?" she smiled at them.

"I—uh—yes ma'am," said Sherry. "Me and Mister Kildare here, we had an appointment in Paso. But take your time. I mean, finish your drawing. We, uh, it's fun to pose and be painted, eh Kildare?"

"Sure!" Hope lied bravely. He had a sense of humor which cropped out momentarily now, too. "I have never posed with Senor Barro before. Wasn't expecting anything like this!"

"It was indeed most, er—how you say in America?—unpremeditated?" Luis spoke suavely, ultra polite.

"Oh of course it was all impromptu," Betty Mary gushed. "But I prefer it that way. I can catch you with natural expressions and all. If you were hired models, or had been forwarned, you would be so stiff and all. Don't you see?"

"Yes'm," said Hope, wishing he could spank her hard.

She went around behind them for one last ostentatious "setting" of their heads at just the right angles. Then she took Sherry's hanging left hand and lifted it to his hip—incidentally stuffing the note in it and squeezing, as she talked. He caught her signal, held the note there.

* * *

THE farewells a few moments later were uneventful, even if highly amusing to Luis Barro and in another way to Betty Mary herself. She bade Hope and Sherry goodby with profuse thanks, forcing them to admire the drawing dutifully. "I have to give this copy to Don Luis," she declared, "for he is my escort tonight. I hope I can do you both again sometime."

Hope and Sherry left the cafe and walked to their car with chips on their shoulders, saying not a word until they had turned on the car light.

"Hell and damn!" breathed Hope, who was not given to profanity at all.

"She slipped me a note," said Sherry.

"Yeah? No foolin'!"

They read it carefully, heads together.

"I'll be doggoned!" muttered Sherry then.

"Me, too," Hope echoed. "That gal's had us on the pan, and no mistaking that. What'll we do with her now? Good glory, Sherry!"

"Nothing we can do but wait. And stay away from her, I guess."

They drove back across the line, went directly to the Border Patrol office, and got the man in the tower crow's nest on the telephone.

"Listen here, Sam," Sherry growled at his fellow officer, "you can see the Montezuma Hotel from up there. Well, listen—you watch the fourth floor windows like a hawk, or I'll break your confounded neck, you hear? If you see anything hanging in a window, any towels or handkerchiefs, you let me or Hope know at once, see? I ain't jokin'."

"What's up?" his friend Sam demanded. "You and Hope up to some devilment?"

"Never mind. You watch that northeast window, fourth floor."

"Okay, okay. What you and Hope gonna be doing, though?"

"We're gonna be watching it, too."

One of their selections will be a Carol arrangement by Deems Taylor, eminent composer and critic who is the intermission commentator on the Sunday afternoon radio hour of the New York Philharmonic orchestra.

Comic Opera Overture

Abe Rosenthal, conductor of the Sedalia Symphony, has planned a strong orchestral program to balance with the offerings of the soloist and the assisting guest artists.

Following are the program notes for the orchestra number which will open the concert Tuesday night:

Overture from "The Merry Wives of Windsor," by Nicolai (1810-1849).

"The Merry Wives of Windsor" is a comic opera in three acts by Otto Nicolai, an adaptation of Shakespeare's mirth-provoking play of the same name. The overture presented by the orchestra is a universal favorite. The "merry wives" are two ladies of Windsor, England, Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Page, who receive love-letters simultaneously from Sir John Falstaff, a gentleman of remarkable girth.

They plot together to play a practical joke upon him to make him regret his folly. Mrs. Ford summons Falstaff to her home and Mrs. Page writes her husband an anonymous letter to warn him what is transpiring in his absence. In consequence, Ford comes suddenly upon the scene and knocks at the door.

The two women, apparently in great terror, tumble the huge fellow into a laundry basket and bury him under soiled clothing. The servants are summoned to carry out the basket and throw it in the water. Ford, finding the house empty, is ashamed of his suspicions and his wife is so hurt by his injustice that she faints with great effect.

Nicolai composed the opera in 1848, but it was not proposed until 1849, two months before his death in Vienna.

Homes Show Fashion Prevue Indicates Skirts Are Up

Skirt lengths, as indicated at the Spring and Summer Fashion Prevue staged Thursday night at Sedalia National Homes Show and Exposition, are definitely short, from 15 to 17 inches off the floor.

The newest in styles, shown by Connor-Wagoner's Inc., were modeled by Dorothy Lang's Debutante's, girls in one of the acts presented each afternoon and night from the exposition stage in the coliseum of the Missouri State Fair grounds.

Utility dresses, daytime street wear, cool frocks for the warmest summer days, afternoon frocks and formals were types of styles modeled. Featured colors were orchid shades, yellows and aquas. There were also effective black and white ensembles. Evening dresses, of course, were long and full-skirted.

The importance of stripes, not only in the materials but for trimmings was evident. Two-color combinations, and jacket dresses were featured. The jackets, some in contrasting colors, were shown in the briefest models and also in hip-lengths.

There was a noteworthy trend toward cheerfulness and femininity in styles.

The fashion prevue was presented during the colorful stage attraction, which had a change of numbers by the acts, which offer chorus ensembles, dance specialties and acrobatic novelties, assisted by a band.

Mrs. Florence Elliott, manager of the Connor-Wagoner store in Sedalia, was in charge of the style show. Members of the organization from various surrounding towns in central Missouri were also present. Shoes for the costumes were furnished by Demands.

A cooking school was conducted under the auspices of Caldwell's electric shop this afternoon at the exposition.

'Shopworn Angel' — with Margaret Sullavan and James Stewart at Uptown Today-Saturday

James Stewart plays the part of a very ordinary young soldier in "Shopworn Angel," war-time photoplay, at the Uptown theatre today and Saturday. Margaret Sullavan as the impulsive actress who could not control her emotions makes and excellent and exciting partner for him. When they found themselves caught in the vortex of that swiftly moving moment, a blazing romance sprang up between the young Texas cowboy on his way to war and the sophisticated actress of New York, who was bored with the life she led. Walter Pidgeon, the third member of the triangle gives an excellent performance of the jilted lover. Second feature on the program is "In Early Arizona" starring Bill Elliott, known as "Wild Bill Hickok" from his work in the serial of that title.

In The Money At Last!

Edna May Oliver, Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire in a scene from "The Story of Vernon and Irene Castle," opening a three day run Tuesday at the Liberty theatre. Miss Oliver, as an artist's agent, has just introduced the pair, enacting The Castles, at a swank cafe for a dancing try out, where they go over "like a house afire" and collect on the spot. Miss Oliver and Walter Brennan are in chief support to the stars in the RKO Radio dramatic musical.

Hitler Tries To Allay War Fears In Address

on England is that for the return of our colonies. But I always have made it very clear that this would not become the cause of a military conflict."

On this point he addressed Mr. Roosevelt:

"I would appreciate it very much if you, Mr. Roosevelt, as one of the successors to the late President Wilson were to devote yourself to seeing that the promises be at last redeemed on the basis of which Germany once laid down her arms and gave herself up to the so-called victors.

"I am thinking less of the innumerable millions (of money) extorted from Germany as so-called reparations than of the territories stolen from Germany.

"President Wilson solemnly pledged his word that German colonial claims like all others would receive the same just examination. It would be a noble act if President Franklin Roosevelt were to redeem the promises made by President Woodrow Wilson."

Addressing the reichstag the German fuehrer offered assurances of "the kind desired by Mr. Roosevelt on the condition of absolute reciprocity provided that the state wishes it and itself addresses to Germany a request for such assurance"—of non-aggression.

Specifically he gave "an assurance regarding those territories which would after all give him (Roosevelt) the most cause for apprenhension, namely the United States itself and the other states of the American continent."

The fuehrer made a long 21-point analysis of the president's message, which appealed for German and Italian pledges to 31 states in which he countered with his own views the points raised by the president.

Some of these states, he said, he had asked whether they felt themselves menaced, and added, "the reply was in all cases negative, in some cases strongly so."

Spoke Over Two Hours

Hitler finished speaking at 2:26 p. m. (7:26 a. m. CST), his voice still strong after more than two hours of oratory. Four minutes later Field Marshal Goering declared the session closed and Hitler left amid the thunderous "Heils!" of the deputies.

The chancellor expressed willingness to join in disarmament discussions such as Roosevelt suggested provided, "Mr. President, you do not appeal first to me and Germany but rather to the others."

In rejoinder to the Roosevelt proposal for talks seeking world trade improvement he suggested that the president first use his influence to "remove the barriers to a genuinely free world trade beginning with the United States."

But he strongly expressed his distrust of conferences and asserted, "the freedom of North America was not achieved at the conference table any more than the conflict between north and south was decided there."

"Germany," he added, "will never enter a conference defenseless . . . every German negotiator should and shall have behind him the united strength of the German nation, so help me God!"

Without specifically mentioning the United States, Britain or France, Hitler said he failed to understand why governments recall their ambassadors "without any reason" and thereby disturb diplomatic relations without cultivating them.

(United States Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson was recalled to report last November. The British and French ambassadors were called home last month after the absorption of Czecho-Slovakia but returned to Berlin this week.)

Neither the British nor French ambassadors, however, was in the diplomatic gallery today and the United States was represented there by her charge d'affaires, Raymond H. Geist.

'Abhorence Of War'

At one pcint Hitler declared, "I am not aware for what purpose I should wage war at all," and added that he had "an abhorrence of war."

"I have not conducted any war," he said.

A little later:

"Let us hope that at least the United States in the future itsel acts according to this noble principle and will not go to war against any country except in the case of unquestionable home defense."

Despite his denunciation of the naval treaty the fuehrer contended that the only question between Britain and Germany was the return of Germany's war lost colonies but added that "this would not become the cause of a military conflict."

For denunciation of his accord with Britain and Poland he blamed "British war mongers" and Poland's calling up of troops.

He contended Poland had rejected a just offer for the solution of the problem of Danzig and the corridor.

In announcing his decision that the 10-year non-aggression agreement of 1934 with Poland had been infringed, Hitler ominously referred to the fate of Czecho-Slovakia by saying:: : : :

"The worst is that now Poland, like Czecho-Slovakia a year ago, believes under the pressure of a lying international campaign that it must call up troops although Germany on her part has not called up a single man and has not thought of proceeding in any way against Poland."

He asserted that his offers to Poland had been rejected.

These offers, he publicly revealed for the first time were:

Return of Danzig as a free state into the framework of the German reich; a soveriegn German route across the Polish corridor to East Prussia and a railway line across the corridor at Germany's disposal; a free harbor at Danzig for Poland; acceptance of present boundaries between the two countries as final; a 25-year non-aggression treaty, and a guarantee of the independence of Slovakia by Germany, Poland and Hungary.

To France Hitler repeated his guarantee to respect Alsace-Lorraine as French territory. The territory was won by Germany in the war of 1870 and regained by France in the World War.

Answering President Roosevelt's non-aggression proposals he declared himself willing to give to other nations assurances of non-aggression on the condition of absolute reciprocity, and provided the states in question desired it.

WARSAW, April 28—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's denunciation of the 10-year 1934 non-aggression past with Poland was characterized as "bluff" in authoritative Polish circles today.

"He is just trying to scare Poland," said one well informed observer. "He won't get away with it."

It was stressed that Poland is willing to negotiate with Germany on the issue of the free state of Danzig, which Germany wants to absorb, but that Hitler's original demands on this subject were "impossible."

Some foreign diplomats saw the possibility Poland might move closer to Soviet Russia because of the German action.

Causes Uneasiness

PARIS, April 28—(AP)—First French reaction to the Hitler speech in circles close to the foreign office was, in the words of one, that it "closely resembled an anti-climax."

Diplomatic sources, however, said they considered that Hitler might have been preparing the way for a sudden stroke against Poland.

His renunciation of the ten-year German-Polish non-aggression pact caused considerable uneasiness when taken in connection with his announcement that Poland had refused his "just" offer for a settlement of Danzig and Polish corridor problems.

Sources close to the government said, however, that a real lack of French concern was shown by the fact that Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet both passed up Hitler's address to attend a state luncheon given by Rumanian Foreign Minister Grigore Gafeencu.

Before going to the luncheon, naval minister Cesar Campinchi signed an order for work to start at once on four previously authorized destroyers of the "minority" class.

The destroyers will be named the Corsican, the Tunisian, the Alsatian and the Breton.

Highlights In Hitler Answer

however, wish to enter once more into negotiations with Germany on this problem no one would be happier than I at the prospect of still being able to come to a clear and straightforward understanding."

German-Polish Non-Agression Treaty

"I look upon the agreement which Marshal Pilsudski and I at one time concluded as having been unilaterally infringed by Poland and thereby no longer in existence.

"Poland . . . believes . . . it must call up troops although Germany on her part has not called up a single man and has not thought of proceeding in any way against Poland."

France

"I have not, as France did in 1870-71, described the cession of Alsace-Lorraine as intolerable for the future but have drawn a difference between the Saar territory and the two former imperial (German) territories. I have never changed my attitude nor will I ever do so."

Danzig

Hitler said Germany wants:

1. Return of Danzig as a free state within Germany;

2. A sovereign German route across the Polish corridor to East Prussia; a railroad line across the corridor at Germany's disposal;

He said Germany would offer in return:

1. Acceptance of present German-Polish boundaries as final;

2. A 25-year non-aggression treaty and a guarantee of the independence of Slovakia by Germany, Poland and Hungary.

3. Recognition of all Polish economic rights in Danzig, assurance of a free harbor for Poland in Danzig.

(This was the first disclosure of Germany's proposals, which Poland has rejected.)

Small States

"I have given binding declarations to a large number of states. None of these states can complain that even a trace of a demand contrary thereto has ever been made to them by Germany."

War-Lost Colonies

"I am thinking less of the innumerable millions extorted from Germany as so-called reparations than of the territories stolen from Germany.

"In and outside Europe Germany lost approximately 3,000,000 square kilometers (1,158,000 square miles) of territory and that in spite of the fact that the whole German colonial empire, in contrast to the colonies of other nations was not acquired by way of war but solely through treaties or purchase."

The United States' Attitude

"There is hardly any possibility of doubt, for example, that America's entry into the great war was not a case of unquestionable home defense. A research committee set up by President Roosevelt himself has examined the causes of America's entry into the great war and reached the conclusion that the entry ensued chiefly for exclusively capitalistic reasons; nevertheless no practical conculsions have been drawn from this fact.

"Let us hope, then, that at least the United States will in the future itself act according to this noble principle (self-defense) and will not go to war against any country except in the case of unquestionable home defense.

Disarmament

To President Roosevelt's suggestion that disarmament or arms limitation be discussed at a world conference, Hitler answered in part, that he was willing, provided:

"Mr. Roosevelt, you do not appeal first to me and Germany but rather to the others; I have a long line of practical experience behind me and shall remain skeptically inclined until reality has taught me to know better."

Trade

To the president's similar suggestion concerning a trade parley, Hitler answered:

"It is my belief, Mr. Roosevelt, that it would be a great service if you, with your great influence would remove the barriers to a geniunely free world trade beginning with the United States."

Conferences

"I would . . . be very happy if these problems could really find their solution at the conference table. My skepticism, however, is based on the fact that it was America herself who gave sharpest expression to her mistrust in the effectiveness of conferences. For the greatest conference of all time was without any doubt the league of nations."

War Guilt

" . . . Germany was no more to blame for the outbreak of the (world) war than any other nation."

Fight Brews On Relief Spending

WASHINGTON, April 28—(AP)—Congressional leaders predicted today President Roosevelt's $1,763,000,000 relief proposal would be accepted readily by both house and senate, but a fight is brewing over how the money should be spent.

Senate Leader Barkley (D-Ky) and House Leader Rayburn (D-Tex) agreed the sum asked by Mr. Roosevelt for the year beginning July 1 was "conservative."

The WPA would get $1,477,000,000 of the total, the National Youth Administration and the Farm Security Administration $123,000,000 each, and about $40,000,000 would go to other federal agencies for relief activities.

For allocating relief funds, three major plans have been suggested:

1. Senator Byrnes (D-SC) would distribute funds half on the basis of a state's unemployment and half on the basis of population. He would require that each state contribute an average of 33⅓ per cent of project costs.

2. Republicans generally support a proposal to turn relief administration back to the states, and Senator Lodge (R-Mass) would require money be distributed among the states according to jobs requried.

3. Representative Woodrum (D-Va.), a leader of the economy minded house members, also has proposed turning relief back to the states, with congress fixing the amount each state could receive and with a federal administrator supervising projects.

Mr. Roosevelt already has adopted a part of Byrnes' relief plan by ordering reorganization of the PWA, WPA and other works and relief units into an integrated federal works agency. His message indicated, however, that he disagreed to some extent with the senator's distribution formula.

For Civil Service To Fire Fighters

JEFFERSON CITY, April 28—(AP)—The house passed and sent to the senate today a bill settling up a civil service system for the fire departments in all Missouri cities under 75,000. The vote was 79 to 0.

Also approved and sent to the governor were two measures of Sen. Allen McReynolds (D), Carthage, applying to Joplin and Springfield.

One would permit destruction of records more than 10 years old upon a unanimous vote of the city commission; the other would permit special tax bills to bear an interest rate of 4 to 8 per cent compared with the present fixed 8 per cent.

The lower branch sent to the governor a bill of Sen. Francis Smith (D), St. Joseph, authorizing the county auditor in Greene and Buchanan counties to hire an additional deputy at a salary of $1,500 a year.

Some Distrust Declaration Of The Fuehrer

tering, pugnacious speech. I am disappointed."

Rep. Lea (D-Calif): "The Hitler broadcast has somewhat clarified the situation and, I think we may hope, has lessened the danger of war. It will leave America skepical, however, for there was too much of the idea 'give us what we want and have no fear.'"

Rep. Arnold (D-Ill): "There can be no doubt of Hitler's intention to continue his program until he achieves his aims."

Rep. Fish (R-NY): "I do not believe there will be a European war this year unless the hate and war - crazy administration in Washington goads the British and French into it with false promises."

Rep. Ferguson (D-Okla): "It was undoubtedly a belligerent speech and we will do well to recognize that he is going to carry out his program in Central Europe regardless of any theats by the rest of the world. We must prepare for any eventuality."

Rep. Ford (D-Miss): "As a whole, I think it offered great encouragement for world peace. His pledges, if they mean anything, offset the more belligerent parts of the speech."

Senator Capper (R-Kas): "After listening to Hitler's intemperate and defiant reply, I still hope that Europe's troubles can be settled by peaceful methods."

Senator Lundeen (FL-Minn): "I am confirmed in my resolve never to vote an American dollar or drop of American blood into the quarrels of Europe."

Senator Gillette (D-Iowa): "Hitler's speech still must be weighed as to whether it is really an answer to Roosevelt's appeal or a confession and plea to his people."

Rep. Church (R-Ill): "Let us stop at the appeal to Hitler and Mussolini."

Deny Mistrial In Murder Case

KEYTESVILLE, Mo., April 28—(AP)—After two defense moves to end the wife murder trial of Dr. William F. LaMance failed today, the trial was recessed until noon tomorrow to permit defense lawyers to question a surprise state witness to whom they objected.

Judge James S. Rooney overruled a defense motion to declare a mistrial and a move to quash the murder information.

Dr. John S. Lucas, Linn county coroner, was the only witness today. He was recalled and cross-examined sharply on details of his post-mortem examination of Mrs. LaMance, whose decomposing body was found in her fruit cellar at Laclede last August 15.

The coroner said Mrs. LaMance's stomach contained "something" when it was removed, but that it was empty when tested for poisons by the Missouri highway patrol.

The defense announced soon after the 29-year old nurse's death it had obtained a specimen of her stomach contents and that it contained a virulent poison. The state has said it would have been impossible for the defense to get the specimen.

The surprise witness, Crawford Snyder, 32, Hamilton, Mo., truck driver, told newspaper men he was standing near the LaMance home on the night of August 9, fixed by the state as the time of Mrs. LaMance's death. Three other witnesses have testified to the same thing, and it was conjectured that Snyder would give additional testimony.

The mistrial was demanded on the ground a juror had improperly asked to examine again torn and blood-stained clothing of the Laclede osteopath. Judge Rooney overruled after brief testimony.

Citizens Move For A Cleanup

KANSAS CITY, April 28—(AP)—A citizens' movement to clean up and rejuvenate Kansas City was on foot today.

A committee of four business men presented a plan to Mayor Bryce B. Smith for a universal house cleaning.

Meanwhile the Jackson county court removed from the superintendency of the county parental school for delinquent children Mrs. Gertrude R. Kennedy, a sister of Mrs. Frances Ryan, former head of the school who is serving a three-year vote fraud term in the federal women's prison at Alderson, W. Va.

The committee of business men who told the mayor they desired a thorough rejuvenation of the city were R. J. DeMotte, president of the chamber of commerce; Vincent J. O'Flaherty, Jr., president of the real estate board; W. T. Grant, insurance company executive and J. W. Perry, a retired banker.

Mayor Smith said the committee's plan coincided with his own ideas and that he heartily approved the proposal.

The four men proposed to the mayor and Zachman that a large committee be appointed representing every phase of business and civic activity to aid in coordinating a program "for return of city government to the people." Mr. Grant said a committee of from 50 to 100 members was suggested.

The ouster of Mrs. Kennedy followed continuing pressure by 24,000 women of the city who protested her appointment following the departure of Mrs. Ryan to prison.

Governors To Church Convention Tonight

plan would almost ineviable result in a virtual buyers' strike."

Haworth told his listeners that the field workers for the social security commission were overtaxed now with the amount of work they had to do and could not afford the time to attend to the moral values of their clients.

An Uphill Pull

This, he said, should be cared for by the churches. They should help needy men and women "to make the uphill pull into the ranks of the self-supporting."

Commenting on the present field staff of the commission, Haworth stated a more adequate staff is a necessity, "not just to safeguard the state treasury, althcught that is reason enough, but also to play fair with the needy citizens who are dependent upon the limited funds available.

"During the last biennium," he added, $9,000,000 was spent for general relief. The average payment per family per month was only $10. I think you will agree with me that this is not counted to live on, it is hardly enough to exist on."

Despite this, Haworth said the legislature recently passed an appropriation bill in which funds for direct relief were reduced to $5,000,000 for the two-year period now under way. He said the state social security commission considers this appropriation "wholly inadequate to meet the minimum requirements to relieve the disdress of those who in every reasonable probability will need assistance during this biennial period."

Praises Commissioners

Praising the disinteredness of the five social security commission members, Haworth stated they had warned the legislature that with this reduced appropriation there "will be desperate need which we cannot meet, tragic suffering which will go unrelieved, with possible consequence of social disorder which is not to be lightly dismissed."

Speaking of child welfare services and the growing recognition of the need for such, Haworth praised the work of the 800 churches in Missouri of the Christian denomination.

C. E. Lemmon, of Columbia, state president of the disciples of Christ, persided over the evening session, which was readed by the Missouri Christian Missionary Society.

Banquet Held Earlier

A banquet was held earlier in the evening, with W. N. Wilson, of Independence, the toastmaster. The devotional during the evening session was led by LaVerne L. Rudolph, Chillicothe, and special music was furnished by William Woods College, of Fulton.

During the afternoon's program, Mrs. Esther Gale Potee, of India, gave a Missionary address. The delegates made a tour of Sedalia, visiting the fair grounds, park, etc., at the close of the afternoon session.

Refutes Story As To Peace Move

HYDE PARK, N. Y., April 28—(AP)—President Roosevelt today declared as "not true" a New York Times story that he had proposed last year that Mussolini and Hitler meet him at sea to discuss their minimum terms for peace.

The president authorized the following statement:

"I have read the Krock story in the New York Times. It is not true, but otherwise it is interesting and well written."

The Times' story, sent from Washington under the signature of correspondent Arthur Krock, declared the president's purpose in suggesting such an unprecedented conference was "to learn from the dictators at first hand their minimum terms for pledging lasting peace and, if he found these practical, to offer his services as intermediary."

A White House secretary said the president slept through the entire speech today by Chancellor Hitler.

Broadcasting officials said the reichstag address lasted two hours and 20 minutes, ending at 7:20 a. m. (CST). This was the exact minute the president was said to have awakened. The secretary added the president would have no comment on the German leader's address.

He said the president, while waiting to receive the Norwegian Crown Prince Olaf and Crown Princess Martha of Norway, would spend most of his time discussing with Frankl Walker, of New York, plans to turn over his Hyde Park home as an archives for his public and private papers after he leaves office.

Soviet Aviator Heads For U. S.

MOSCOW, Apil 28.—(AP)—Brigadier General Cladimir Kokkinaki reported at 6:30 p. m. tonight (9:30 a. m. C. S. T.) that his big red monoplane was approaching the coast of Greenland, more than half way to the goal of his bold attempt to fly nonstop from Moscow to New York.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, April 28.—(AP)—The Soviet Russian legation reported that the Russian plane Moskva passed over Reykjavik, Iceland, at 8:54 a. m. Greenwich mean time (2:54 a. m., CST) today on its projected nonstop flight from Moscow to the United States.

(Reykjavik is on the western coast of Iceland about 2,000 miles from the Labrador coast, toward which the Moskva was heading.)

The plane, flown by Brig. Gen. Vladimir Konstantino-Vich Kokkinaki, ace Soviet flier, is headed for New York for the opening of the world's fair.

Accompanied by a navigator-radio operator, Major Mikhail Gordienko, Kokkinaki lifted his red, twin-motored monoplane from the long concrete runway at Moscow at 4:19 a. m. (7:19 p. m., CST Thursday) for the 4,700-mile flight along the great circle route, by way of Iceland and Greenland.

He expects to reach North America at Labrador and turn down the coast toward New York, completing the flight within 25 hours—the first nonstop flight between Moscow and New York.

The Moskva reported perfect weather before reaching Finland. The plane took off into a clear sky, leaving the ground with ease despite its heavy fuel load.

The Soviet-built plane — the same in which Kokkinaki flew nonstop from Moscow to Valdivostok last June, a distance of 4,722 miles, in 24 hours and 36 minutes—if the low-wing type, with retractable landing gear and dual controls.

Its name is painted on the underwing surface in Slavic characters, appearing to read "Mockba."

State Assembly Is Speeding Up

JEFFERSON CITY, April 28.—Spurred by a speed-determined speaker—plus the approach of $1 a day compensation—the house passed 70 senate bills and sent them to the governor in a swift "calendar purge" last night.

Speaker J. G. Christy (D), Festus, kept the restless chamber to its task with his gavel during the short but fast-moving night session. Sixty-three senate revision bills were passed on only two roll calls.

Among the measures passed were three by Sen. Phil M. Donnelly (D), Lebanon, to tighten enforcement of state liquor laws.

The bills would make it mandatory upon the state liquor control supervisor to report to the attorney general and local prosecutors all complaints filed by him for infractions of liquor regulations. The prosecutor, in turn, would be required to report back to the state any action to bring criminal charges against the liquor law violators.

They also provide that fines be levied for the first two offenses in cases where liquor wholesalers are convicted of furnishing bar equipment to retailers. The dealer's license would be revoked on the third such offense.

Signalling the burst of speed, the house perfected in two hours yesterday afternoon bus and truck legislation designed to bring an additional $5,000,000 a year in highway fund revenues to the state. The bills had been lingering on the house calendars as a special order of business for weeks. The senate picked up the quickened tempo, passed 24 revision bills and perfected 32 others in 90 minutes.

The house-perfected truck bills would double the license plate fees for commercial vehicles of one ton or more capacity. New charges would range from a $5.50 minimum to $200 for trucks of nine tons or more.

This is the first time in 10 years the legislature has had a chance to alter either license plates of P. S. C. rates since the fees were pegged by the $75,000,000 road bond issue in 1928.

Larger Income To 'Phone Company

ST. LOUIS, April 28—(AP)—Net income of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company for the first quarter was reported today as $4,361,086, compared with $4,239,677 for the first three months of 1938, an increase of $121,409.

Total revenues increased from $21,654,875 to $22,594,193 for the comparative periods, but the gain was almost offset by increases in total expenses from $16,890,041 to $17,460,378 and in interest from $525,157 to $772,729.

Dividends paid amounted to $3,892,500, compared with $4,273,746 for the first quarter of 1938, the decrease reflecting redemption of the 7 per cent preferred stock on August 1, 1938.

Sedalian Tells Of Youth Being Put To Death

Dr. A. L. Walter Describes Scene At Gas Chamber

"When Robert Kenyon was executed early this morning in the lethal gas chamber at the state prison in Jefferson City, his lips were moving as though he were saying something, praying perhaps," according to Dr. A. L. Walter, of Sedalia, who witnessed his being put to death. He describes the peath procedure as follows:

"I attended the execution with H. C. Davis, Sedalia, son of Dr. J. C. B. Davis who was killed by Kenyon in 1937."

"About 50 witnesses gathered in the waiting room at the penitentiary late last night. We were taken into the execution gallery at 11:45 p. m.

"Kenyon was brought in about 12:01 o'clock this morning. He was pale, trembling very much, but seemed in fairly good control of himself.

Warden Talked To Him

"When he came into the chamber the warden stepped in and talked to him. I couldn't hear what they said but Kenyon replied to him. His face was grim, his lips were rather pale.

"Then he was blindfolded. He had nothing on but shorts.

"The warden stepped out. The doors to the chamber clanged shut, loudly.

"Then the gas was turned on—it came up slowly like a fog.

"When it got to the level of his mouth he seemed to be fighting for breath.

"In 52 seconds, by my stopwatch, he became unconscious. But he wasn't dead then.

"After about a minute and a half he moaned and twitched conclusively. Then his head was thrown back violently and dropped forward on his chest.

"He was dead then.

Spectators Calm

"The spectators were calm during the execution. Kenyon was left in the chamber for 15 minutes Then fans were turned on and the gas expelled. It had come out of the floor under the chair Kenyon was strapped to."

Earlier in the afternoon, Dr. Walter told a reporter, Kenyon had confessed to one of the guards that "I done it," referring to the slaying of Dr. Davis. During his trial, Kenyon had never definitely admitted his guilt although the circumstantial evidence against him was iron clad.

Frank Mancuso To The Giants

NEW YORK, April 28—(AP)—The Giants today bought Frank Mancuso, brother of the Chicago cubs' Gus, from the Fort Smith (Ark.) club of the Western Association, and brought him up as their third string catcher.

Stocks Slump After Early Gain

NEW YORK, April 28.—(AP)—Early gains in today's stock market, following the less war-like than expected Hitler speech in answer to the Roosevelt peace plea, subsequently were wiped out in most cases and replaced with losses running to 3 points.

While the initial run-up was more active than in recent sessions, the later retreat was extremely slow. Transfers approximated 750,000 shares. Some who sold short in the morning cashed profits by covering just before the finish and prices generally ended above the day's lows.

Puzzled brokers advanced the suggestion all traders did not take at face value the moderately conciliatory tone of the Fuehrer's Reichstag address. The majority in Wall Street, however, expressed the belief the Berlin broadcast tended to ease war tension, at least for the moment.

There was nothing particularly stimulating in domestic business news.

"Germany knows well she can not apply to Poland the methods that she has already applied in eastern Europe — accomplished facts and pressure."

Perfect Bill For Blind Aid

JEFFERSON CITY, April 28—(AP)—The senate perfected for passage today a bill which would bring nearly 2,000,000 of federal funds a biennium for Missouri's blind aid program.

The measure, introduced by Senators Allen McReynolds (D), Carthage, and George A. Rozier (R), Perryville, would base payments to blind on their need and shift administration to the state social security commission.

It was amended, however, on a motion by Sen. Phil M. Donnelly (D), Lebanon, to set the minimum monthly payment at $15 and the maximum at $30. Present payments are $25 a month to each of nearly 4,000 eligible blind.

Another amendment, sponsored by Sen. James C. McDowell, (D), Charleston, would retain the present method of issuing the checks through the state auditor's office instead of shifting that work to the social security cimmission as the original bill proposed.

McReynolds warned that unless federal aid was secured the revenue from the constitutional 3-cent blind pension levy would be sufficient to pay pensions only during the first 18 months of the 1939-40.

The house simultaneously passed by a vote of 82 to 0 proposed constitutional amendment increasing the permissible blind levy from 3 to 4½ cents. The amendment was offered by Rep. H. S. Rainwater (R), Polk county.

Senator Emery W. Allison (D), Rolla, introduced in the senate today a bill creating a state board to license architects and engineers. An almost identical measure by Rep. Claude Arnold (D), Stoddard county, was killed by a house committee.

Would Broaden Unification

KANSAS CITY, April 28—(AP)—Proponents of "church democracy" won the first test fight on the floor of the Methodist uniting conference here today.

The conference adopted by a substantial majority a proposal giving ministerial and lay delegates of the six jurisdictions, to be set up under the new single Methodist church, control of the assignment of bishops.

The question of the power of bishops over lay church members brought the first split in Methodism in 1828.

Under the new plan a committee of 70 churchmen made up of 10 from each jurisdiction in the United States and 10 from foreign countries will assign the bishops.

Two outstanding church leaders hailed the Methodist uniting conference here as possibly opening the way for unification of all Protestants.

Dr. George Arthur Buttrick, president of the federal council of churches of Christ in America, and Dr. Umphrey Lee, president of Southern Methodist University, expressed their views before 5,000 persons at a public worship service of the conference last night.

"It is not my job to make the world Presbyterian or yours to make it Methodist," said Dr. Buttrick, pastor of Madison Avenue Presbyterian church in New York.

"Our united job under God is to make the world Christian.

Delayed Checks To Dependents

JEFFERSON CITY, April 28.—(AP)—April's 10,644 delayed checks for aid to dependent children were put in the mail today—2,161 more of them but 20 per cent smaller on the average than in March.

The large increase in the rolls was accompanied by only a $942 increase in the total amount—to $201,702—with a resulting decline in the average size of each check to $19.28. That was more than 35 per cent under the average for January, which was the last month before the payments were reduced to fit the $3,250,000 biennial appropriation passed by the house.

The number of children aided grew 4,644 since March to a total of 24,717, with the average aid per child dropping 18 per cent to $8.16.

The total payments and number of families aided by counties included:

Barton, $917 to 60 families; Boone, $2,649 to 130; Buchanan, $4,381 to 194; Butler, $1,336 to 59; Cape Girardeau, $1,323 to 74; Carrol, $1,034 to 58; Cole, $981 to 52; Cooper, $914 to 39; Greene, $9,111 to 470; Grundy, $1,468 to 81; Jackson, $8,534 to 380; Jasper, $16,092 to 768; Laclede, $1,805 to 112; Livingston, $1,171 to 64; Marion, $1,310 to 66; Nodaway, $1.704 to 91; Pettis, $2,294 to 105; Randolph, $2,441 to 156; St. Louis County, $3,927 to 182; Vernon, $1.803 to 92; and St. Louis City, $33,126 to 1,477.

Prof Rautenstrauch Publishes Textbook

Prof Walter Rautenstrauch, professor of Industrial Engineering, Columbia University, New York, formerly of Sedalia, has published a new textbook "The Economics of Business Enterprise."

The book presents an arrangement and statement of the principles underlying the operations of business enterprise.

Policeman Is Under Suspension

Clarence R. Harrell, was ordered suspended from the Sedalia police department Thursday night following a meeting of the police committee. A letter written to Officer Harrell, was to the effect he had been "suspended for the good of the department."

The letter to Harrell was signed by W. P. Pinkepank, chairman, H. S. Barman and A. L. Bohling, members of the police committee.

The officer had recently been shifted from desk sergeant to patrolman. Sunday morning he was taken out of service by Chief of Police John J. O'Brien for "actions unbecoming an officer," according to the department head.

Chief O'Brien announced the Main street beat would be worked by Officer Joe Gresham, extra policeman, until the city council appoints the police officers.

The city council will probably announce them at the regular council meeting to be held Monday night at the city hall.

To Be Up Again In Juvenile Court

Junior Brown and Harold Inman, two juveniles, who were sentenced to two years in the Missouri Training School at Boonville for breaking into the Hurlbut Printing Co., recently, were picked up again Thursday night by the police in connection with the robbing the home of J. K. Smith, 521 East Third street. street.

The boys admitted to the police they had taken a rifle, bow and arrows, two flash lights, from the Smith residence. The rifle, arrows and flashlights were found by the officers.

Brown was held at the county jail while the Inman boy was sent to his home. They are to be taken before Judge Dimmitt Hoffman in juvenile court this evening.

Chamberlain Is Still For Peace

LONDON, April 28—(AP)—Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, declared today it was "the action of Germany" which was responsible for Britain's new foreign policy.

Speaking shortly after Chancellor Hitler's reichstag speech, Sir John insisted that British character had not altered.

"The thing that has changed British policy and changed it with unanimous approval," he said, "is the action of Germany.

"It is no longer true that German policy is limited to bringing Germans within the reich. Recent actions go further than that and if these actions portend an effort at domination over the rest of Europe it is an effort which Britain must oppose."

Sir John spoke as British naval quarters, analyzing Hitler's cancellation of the Anglo-German naval pact which provided that the German fleet be inferior permanently in tonnage to the British fleet, said they were "unsurprised and undisturbed" by the move.

The chancellor laid the responsibility for Britain's new policy to German action after he had said:

"The German people would do well to ask themselves what is the explanation of so suprising a change. Mr. Chamberlain is still the man of peace."

Fear Of Being 'Edged' Into War

WASHINGTON, April 28—(AP)—Senator Johnson (R-Calif.) contended in hearings on neutrality legislation today, that this country was being "edged" into war by false propaganda.

Questioning a witness before the senate foreign relations committee, Johnson asked if it were not true that "a determined effort is now being made by propaganda to educate the American people that they can't keep out of war?"

The witness, Dr. Charles C. Tansill, professor of American history at Fordham University, said he thought this was true.

"And that way," Johnson added, "we are being edged into war."

"It's a repetition of the old theme song, 'save the world for democracy,'" Professor Tansill said. "That theme song is being revived."

Sharp Advance To Wheat Market

CHICAGO, April 28.—(AP)—Wheat prices shot up three cents a bushel from early lows to the highest levels in nine months in a burst of buying activity during the final hour of trading here today.

Previously the market had declined following the Hitler speech but reports of crop deterioration and good demand for actual wheat as well as a strong revival in export business stimulated the sudden rally.

It was the fourth consecutive session in which higher prices have been written on the blackboard.

Wheat closed 1⅛ to 2⅜ cents higher than yesterday. May 73⅛c to 73c; July 71¾c to 71⅝c; corn unchanged to ¼ cent higher, May 48¼c to 48⅜c, July 50c to 50⅛c; oats ⅛ to ⅜ cent higher.

Seeks Improving Power Farming

DETROIT, April 27.—(AP)—In a large plant where during the World War Henry Ford manufactured submarine chasers, he has begun production of a new tractor that he believes not only will revolutionize agriculture but will "take the minds of people off war."

Although he has manufactured 900,000 tractors, Mr. Ford confesses failure in his efforts to introduce mechanized farming, but today he declared that with the principle developed by Harry Ferguson, of Ireland, "power farming is really here."

Ford believes that power farming in its full development will attract young men desirous of returning to the farm but discouraged from doing so because of the volume of work involved and the small returns from the labor invested.

"There isn't a thing produced from the soil that we cannot use in industry," he added. "Name anything grown on the farm and I will tell you an industrial use for it."

Two decades ago he first advocated a closer relationship between farm and factory.

"We can now tackle mechanized farming from a new scale." he said. "Instead of a tractor weighing about 3,000 pounds, we expect ours to come out at about 1,700 pounds, and we are working to produce even lighter metals to reduce that weight."

The tractor, he said, "dispenses entirely with wheeled implements and in the case of the plow, which has caused the greatest amount of tractor trouble, it uses a principel which pulls the plow point into the ground instead of, as is now done, out of the ground. Striking an obstruction in the field there can be no rearing of the front end of the tractor."

Ford's great hope, he said, was that the mechanized farm would so engage the attention of the younger generation.

"I don't believe there will be another world war," he said, "because there are people in the world who believe in producing things instead of destroying them."

Atterberry Tries To End His Life

CANON CITY, Colo., April 28.—(AP)—Dr. Raymond L. Atterberry, an osteopath convicted of slaying his wife, Nona, was found bleeding and unconscious today in the county jail. Sheriff Foster Ranson said Atterberry had cut veins in his elbow, wrist and neck in a suicide attempt. Dr. W. T. Little said the 40-year--old osteopath probably would recover.

Dr. Atterberry was convicted Tuesday of second degree murder for choking his wife last December 21.

Under his conviction, Dr. Atterberry faced imprisonment for from 10 years to life.

At the trial, state witnesses testified Dr. Atterberry had been accused by his wife of having unnatural relations with a young man in his home. The state also pointed out Mrs. Atterberry's life was insured, with her husband the beneficiary by double the $7,500 in case of accidental death.

Methodists Elect Two New Bishops

Dr. James Straughn And Dr. John Calvin Broomfield Chosen

KANSAS CITY, Opril 28.—(AP)—The Methodist Protestant church last night elected two bishops, its first since 1828, when lay members revolted against strong clerical authority.

The two are Dr. James H. Straughn, Baltimore, president of the church's general conference and Dr. John Calvin Broomfield, Fairmont, W. Va.

Both of the new bishops have been leaders in the Methodist Protestant church since their youth.

Dr. Straughn, who will be 62 June 1, was born at Centerville, Md. Dr. Broomfield will be 65 July 4. He is a native of Scotland.

Dr. Broomfield was president of the general conference of the Methodist Protestant church from 1928 to 1936, and was succeeded by Dr. Straughn in 1936.

Work With Other Bishops

The new bishops will hold that rank in the new church along with 41 from the Methodist Episcopal church and 19 from the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Of those, 12 of the northern bishops and seven from the south are retired.

After the current conference completes its work new bishops will be selected as needed by the joint group rathed than as representatives of the present divisions. Those selected tonight and those already serving, however, will retain their episcopal positions.

In 1821 a group of laymen began an active movement for more lay representation in church government. Unsuccessful, they withdrew in 1828 to form the Associated Methodist Churches which two years later took the Methodist Protestant name.

No Bishops Before

Since they objected to too strong clerical authority, members of the Protestant branch never have chosen bishops. However under the new church plan, already approved by conferences of all three branches, leaders say bishops will not exercise the extensive control which led to the lay revolt.

The other division in Methodism, leading to formation of the south church in 1844, was over the Negro slavery issue. Negroes will act as a separate jurisdictional body under the new single Methodist church.

Probe Payment To Check Leaks

KANSAS CITY, April 28—(AP)—City officials and federal treasury agents probed details today of payment by the city of $342,500 since 1931 to an unincorporated engineering firm to check up on leaks in the water mains.

Disclosure of the payment was made by Mayor Bryce B. Smith who took charge of a reform drive hereafter a federal-state expose of graft, the federal indictment of Boss Tom Pendergast on income tax evasion charges and the resignation under fire of City Manager H. F. McElroy.

Treasury agents are seeking to ascertain how the money was distributed. Mayor Smith said the head of the firm was listed as John J. Rathford, a water department employe for 40 years whose city pay check amounts to $1,680 a year.

Payments t othe firm, as high as $5,000 amonth, were discontinued last November by R. E. O'Malley, director of the water department. O'Malley and Pendergast were indicted recently by a federal grand jury on charges that they received over $370,000 in settlement of a $9,500,000 state insurance case but failed to report it on their income tax files.

The Challenge of Today

David Lawrence says, "Does not the crisis of today afford the very opportunity which the Church has been waiting for—something that makes it possible to turn the rank and file and leaders once more to the simple principles which have come to us through 2,000 years of human experience?

May the captains and generals in the new armyof Moral Force sound the bugles that will call human hearts to action, teach us anew the language of prayer, tell us how to ask Divine Providence to help us sacrifice, and substitute an unremitting worship of the merciful God?" The church is the medium through which this army of moral force can achieve its aims. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

According to rather wide reports, church attendance seems to be on the increase in this country. Various city surveys have revealed this fact in a number of communities. A survey in Omaha, Nebraska, showed a 50 per cent increase. The United Lutheran Church reports a 30 per cent increase in attendance among its 400 mission congregations during the past year.

The Royal Scottish Museum, in collaboration with the Church of Scotland, is arranging for the collection and exhibition of Communion plates, cups, flagons. beakers, platters, etc., from every part of the country. Many of the pieces already secured date fram the seventeenth century. They exhibit many designs and are extremely valuable. One of these is the baptismal bowl presented by Queen Elizabeth to the Church of Scotland. It is now in the possession of one of the churches in the outskirts of Edinburgh.

This year marks the 148th anniversary of the Northern Baptist Education Society, the oldest educational organization for the promotion of educational ideals in the ministry among the Baptists in the United States. The president, Dr. Grady Darwing Feagan, announces that even now plans are being discussed for the society's sesquicentennial commemoration.

The Bible as literature and history is taught in the high schools of twenty cities and towns throughout Michigan for full high school credit, exactly the same as any other subject.

The National Broadcasting Company has announced the inauguration of a new department devoted to religious activities and "designed to bring the Company into fuller cooperation with the hundreds of religious publications throughout the country."

The Better Way

© 1938 D. CARL YODER

Dr. E. Stanley Jones has spoken on the three dominent needs of today; a Christian basis for our social order; an ability to triumph over troubles, injustices, unmerited pain and sufferings; a renewed character through Christ. Said he: "There is no other solution than the Christian way. Nazism enlarges the area of co-operation, but stops with the race. Fascism enlarges the area of cooperation, but stops with the state. Communism enlarges the area of cooperation, but stops with the class. In stopping, they lay foundations for future conflict. The Christian way is the natural way to live; love toward every man, everywhere. Our present society is unnatural and is going to pieces. Life will not work except God's way."

Stop and Think

James Truslow Adams tells of a tribe of savages in the Amazon Valley who made it a practice when on a long trek to stop now and again in order to let their souls catch up with their bodies. That custom, says the noted historian, illustrates the plight in which a large part of the world is today. Mankind has so speeded up the process of living in this machine age that we have neglected our souls. We are better off in material things, but not spiritually better. Years ago Steinmetz, the scientist, and Woodrow Wilson, the statesman, warned the world of this danger. And nineteen centuries ago One who is greater than either urges humanity to consider what profit it would be to a man if he should gain the whole world and lose his own soul. There is no need that we cease our efforts to make progress in the material world, but our greatest need is to have more concern for the development of the soul.

Kocktail Kicks

Wicked Waste of Wealth

During four years since repeal the American people have spent $9,200,000,000 for liquor legally sold. Add to this the millions spent each year for crime due to liquor and you have $33,200,00,-000. This does not include the cost of the traffic for asylums and almshouses. This sum of money would build 11,066,666 homes costing $3,000 each—enough to house 55,333,300 people, allowing five to a family, which is about the average number. The government which authorized and legalized the business which has swept away this many homes is spending hundreds of millions of dollars in housing projects. The unparalleled floods of March, 1936, resulted in a total loss of about two hundred lives. As indicated above liquor destroys more than three times this many lives every day of the year. The flood swept away approximately $1,-00,000,000 worth of property—liquor swept away $33,000,000,-000 the last four years. The government which turned loose this flood is planning a program involving many hundreds of millions of dollars for flood prevention and control.—Lee Ralph Phipps, in New York Christian Advocate.

Mahatma Gandhi says India can and must go dry in three years. No voice is more powerful, writes Rev. Lloyd L. Lordbeer of Pasumalai, South India. In seven of the eleven Autonomous Provinces of India (as distinguished from the 700 states ruled by Indian rajahs) Gandhi's party runs the government. In each, definite steps have been taken to stop the sale of liquor. This will mean a million of dollars of revenue lost to the government. "But," says the Premier, "thrice that saved for the drinkers' families." And he adds, "This is not an experiment but the start of a determined policy. We shall not run the government by tempting the poor to drown their hardships in drink and drugs. Let us show the world that India can succeed where the U. S. A. failed!"—D. Carl Yoder.

BROADWAY PRESBYTERIAN, R. A. Waggoner, minister; Mrs. G. V. Sneed, organist. Bible school 9:30. A cordial welcome to an hour of Bible and worship. Classes for all ages. Morning church worship 10:45. Paul Crosses into Europe. Acts 15:36; 16:4-15 for Sunday, April 30.

After the Jerusalem Council, Paul and Barnabas labored in Antioch of Syria about one year when they were impressed that the work done on their missionary journey needed attention.

V. 3. "And some days after, Paul said unto Barnabas, "Let us go again and visit our brethren in every city where we have preached the word of the Lord and see how they do." That is a religious blunder to evangelize a people and then withhold the instruction necessary to know the way better, and fail to give helpful encouragement.

V. 4. "And as they went through the cities, they delivered the decrees for to keep, that were ordained of the apostles and elders which were at Jerusalem." Paul now spoke with still greater authority having the sanctions of the church at the home base. Without the Christian church today there would be little missionary effort and Christian service.

V. 5. "And so were the churches established in the faith, and increased in number daily." Paul's work of stabilizing Christians was well done, but note that Paul was not satisfied with that for he must have preached conversion, since there were a number added daily.

Vs. 6, 7. "Now when they had gone throughout Phrygia and the region of Galatia and were forbidden of the Holy Ghost to preach in Asia, after they were come to Mysia, they assayed to go into Bithynia, but the Spirit suffered them not." Just why and how Paul was turned away from his purpose we do not know; he may have been sick, which he saw as God's plan to stop him. That Unseen Power often stops us from going our own way which we do not understand now.

V. 9. "And a vision appeared to Paul in the night; there stood a man of Macedonia and prayed him saying, Come over into Macedonia and help us." Paul had eyes to see the need of the gospel in that neglected field. He saw in that need a clear call to go. If we saw the needs of mankind, we too might see a man calling.

V. 10. "And after he had seen the vision, immediately we endeavored to go over into Macedonia, gathering that the Lord had called us for to preach the gospel unto them." The writer of the Acts was there, as seen in the word "We." Luke, the good physician and author, may have been called on account of an illness. But nothing is said about the material things; to these missionaries the spiritual welfare of others was of prime importance, and they answered the call with "immediate" action.

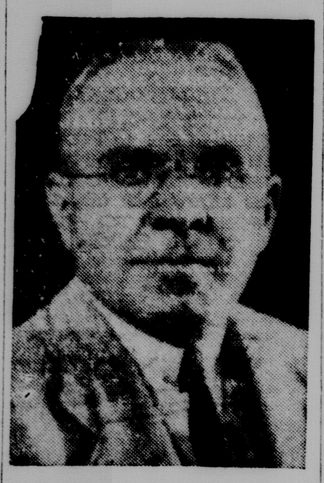
V. 12. "And from thence to Phillipi, which is the chief city and a colony; and we were there in that city abiding certain days." Here is a replica city of Rome located in modern Europe. A new approach had to be made and Paul took time to lay well the Christian foundation. Paul's influence was destined to go on to Rome itself, and beyond that.

V. 13. "And on the sabbath we went out of the city by the river side, where prayer was wont to be made; and we sat down and spake to the women which resorted thither." When Paul could not find a synagogue he sought the next best place where good people congregate. God can work best through a congregation of followers though He uses men individually.

V. 14. "And a certain woman named Lydia, a seller of purple, which worshipped God heard us; whose heart the Lord opened, that she attended unto the things which were spoken of Paul." Here is a business woman who lived up to her knowledge of God whom she worshipped. Paul preached the gospel of Christ which she gladly received. The man of Macedonia calling Paul turned out to be a woman.

V. 15. "And when she was baptized, and her household, she besought us, saying, if ye have judged me to be faithful to the Lord, come into my house and abide there. And she constrained us." This was the beginning of the Phillipian church, a seat of Christian power. The home was here recognized as a sacred institution where the Christian message and messengers were welcomed.

Speaker



Rev. Robert M. Hopkins, Indianapolis, Ind., one of the principal speakers at the Christian church convention here.

Miss Elaine Coleman

Member of Baptist Sunday School Board, Nashville, Tenn. on the BTU program at the Baptist church.

Discussion Questions on S.S. Lesson

© 1937 D. CARL YODER

Sunday, April 30.

1. What were the decrees ordained of the apostles and elders at Jerusalem?
2. What conditions are necessary for divine guidance?
3. Where in this lesson is Paul seen as an evangelist?
4. What doors of Christian service are open to us today?
5. Who were Paul's companions at Phillipi? Why was Mark not with them?

CLERICUS says, "To be spiritually guided, there must be a pronounced desire for it making use of good common sense, studying to know God's will and earnest prayer."

LESSON PRAYER: "We would be winning to sacrifice our opinion to serve in promising fields when God calls us to serve in more humble places."

Sugarless Diet, Insulin Injections Used to Fight Diabetes

It has been estimated that with the increased expectancy of life in the United States today, more people are living longer and, therefore, more people tend to die of diabetes. In fact, the increased expectancy of life for man has been responsible for the increase of the rates of deaths from heart disease, cancer and other conditions.

Diabetes is now believed to affect anywhere from 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 American people. It is due fundamentally to a failure of the gland in the body called the pancreas to supply an internal secretion known as insulin which is associated with the burning of sugar.

Frequently I have explained that man derives his energy from the burning of fuel exactly as an engine develops energy by burning fuel. The chief fuel for the body is a carbon which is contained in sugar and starchy foods.

It really is the same type of carbon that is contained in coal. These foods are called carbohydrate foods. When starchy foods like bread and potatoes are digested, they become sugar.

* * *

When the diabetic person eats starchy foods and sugars, they are not burned as in the normal body, but tend to accumulate. When the amount of such materials in the blood increases sufficiently, the sugar overflows and is found in the patient's urine.

The first step to determine whether a person has diabetes is to examine the urine to find out if sugar is present and if so, in what amount. The next step is to examine the blood to determine how much sugar is in the blood.

Obviously, in such cases the first simple step is to cut down the total amount of sugar taken into the body by controlling the diet. If this can be accomplished without too great injuring the health of the patient, it is unnecessary to give additional aid.

If, however, the diet alone does not get rid of the excessive sugar, it is customary to give the patient injections of insulin sufficient in amount to help him take care of the sugars in his food and to give him health and strength.

Insulin must be given by injection. There is no preparation which has yet been discovered which can be taken by mouth and have the same effects that insulin has on the human body.

Nevertheless, from time to time there are people who think that they have found some vegetable, plant or drug which will have this effect. They endeavor to promote such preparations to the people. Every one of these preparations when suitably tested has been found to be useless.

* * *

Of course, it is not especially pleasant to take injections of insulin day after day. When it is remembered, however, that insulin injections can prolong the life of the diabetic and enable him to live almost a completely normal existence, he will not be dissatisfied but, indeed, will be more than grateful for this great boom to mankind.

Recently, a new slow-acting compound of insulin has been developed which makes it possible to get along frequently with a smaller number of injections. There are several types of the new protamine zinc insulin.

It is necessary for the person with diabetes to find out from the doctor which of these types he should take, and how often. This is determined only after a careful study of the person concerned, his diet and his ability to utilize the material that is injected into the body.

Ninety-two per cent of the 9,000,000 people living in Egypt are of the Mohammedan faith.

High temperatures in factories, according to authorities, increase the number of accidents.

• Raising a Family

"Whistle and hoe, sing as you go. Shorten the rows by the songs that you know."

I scarcely need to go on. These lines from an old rhyme tell a long story.

One time an old friend of mine told me about his mother. He was then, and still is, a United States senator. He was sending his mother a new set of furniture. He was always sending her presents while she lived. "I can still see her as she was when I was a little chap," he said, "tending to things on the stove, rocking the cradle of my baby sister with her foot, and singing, always singing.

"Father worked in a mine. My brothers, too, the older ones. At any time word might come of disaster. But she sang.

"And when I was old enough to go to work, I remember coming down the road toward the little house and looking for the light in the window. There it was, always, without fail. And I knew that she was humming a tune while she kept our supper hot.

"We all worked hard, of course, but she worked hardest of all. But I never heard a word from her about poverty. Never a complaint about being tired or discouraged."

My own mother sang. I thought her songs "different" from those people usually sang. She went to country school. Now I know that whoever it was that taught her had some access to good music. I hear those old ballads now on the radio and I nearly smother with emotion. "Kitty of the Glen," "Gaily The Troubador." "Sleep, Baby Sleep," "Mistletoe Bough," "The Spanish Cavalier," 'May Queen" and "Rock Me To Sleep."

There were more, some so vague now that I can only recall a bar or two. But she sang or hummed so much at her busy tasks, and she was always busy, that I cannot think of her now without wishing she were back so I could thank her. As children do, I took her courage for granted.

Music has a strange psychology of its own. Like a smile, it changes mental attitude completely. The physical effort of smiling has an immediate response on thought and feeling. So it is with singing. Nothing could be truer than the last line of our little couplet, Shorten the rows by the songs that you know."

• Stamp News

DESCRIPTION of the U. S. baseball commemorative has been officially announced by Postmaster General James A. Farley. The stamp will be placed on first-day sale June 12 at Cooperstown, N. Y., where baseball is said to have originated 100 years ago.

The stamp will be a 3-cent value, purple and identical in size with the current special delivery stamp, arranged horizontally. The central motif will depict a sandlot baseball game between two boys' teams, with the pitcher about to deliver the ball as he watches a runner on first base. To the left of the central design will be crossed bats, with a glove and ball enclosed within a wreath.

In the background will be shown a church with steeple, and a schoolhouse with an American flag flying from the playground flagpole.

Further details about first-day cover arrangements will be announced by the Post Office Department later.

Published by the American Air Mail Society, Albion, Pa., the 1940 edition of the "American Airmail Catalogue" is off the press. It contains 720 pages, 78 maps, more than 1100 illustrations. It is the first volume of its kind to be issued since 1934, was compiled by some 50 experts in the field of philately.

Sections include U. S. air mail stamps, pioneer flights, U. S. territories and insular possessions, trans-oceanic record flights, foreign pioneer flights, U. S. souvenir historical flights, U. S. contract air mail, to mention only a few.

The centenary of the postage stamp in 1940 will be marked by England with a series of four values, it has been announced. Designs have been invited from 30 prominent artists. Other nations are expected to issue commemoratives for the same reason, perhaps making 1940 the biggest stamp year in history.

Hitler Ends Anglo-German Naval Pact

Assurances Of Non-Aggression For Reciprocity

BERLIN, April 28—(AP)—Adolf Hitler, replying before the reichstag to President Roosevelt today, summarily ended the Anglo-German naval pact and ten-year peace agreement with Poland, but offered to give purely reciprocal assurances to those countries which come to him and ask for them.

He gave direct assurances to President Roosevelt for the territories of the American continent.

He laid the blame on "British war mongers" and on Poland's calling up of troops for his cancellation of the two agreements.

He contended Poland had rejected a just offer for the solution of the problem of Danzig and the corridor.

In announcing his decision that the 10-year non-aggression agreement of 1934 with Poland had been infringed, Hitler ominously referred to the fate of Czecho-Slovakia by saying:: : : :

"The worst is that now Poland, like Czecho-Slovakia a year ago, believes under the pressure of a lying international campaign that ti must call up troops although Germany on her part has not called up a single man and has not thought of proceeding in any way against Poland."

He asserted that his offers to Poland had been rejected.

These offers, he publicly revealed for the first time were:

Return of Danzig as a free state into the framework of the German reich; a soveriegn German route across the Polish corridor to East Prussia and a railway line across the corridor at Germany's disposal; a free harbor at Danzig for Poland; acceptance of present boundaries between the two countries as final; a 25-year non-aggression treaty, and a guarantee of the independence of Slovakia by Germany, Poland and Hungary.

To France Hitler repeated his guarantee to respect Alsace-Lorraine as French territory. The territory was won by Germany in the war of 1870 and regained by France in the World War.

Answering President Roosevelt's non-aggression proposals he declared himself willing to give to other nations assurances of non-aggression on the condition of absolute reciprocity, and provided the states in question desired it.

Elks Initiate A Class Of 18

The B. P. O. Elks Lodge 125, Wednesday night, initiated eighteen new members at one of the largest meetings held in the lodge in several years. It was the first initiation held by the Elks since the remodeling of the building has been completed.

Members of the Elks Lodges from Columbia, Jefferson City, Macon, Decatur, Alabama, Warrensburg, were present at the initiation. The various visiting Elks reported from their lodges on the prospective delegatians coming to Sedalia for the three-day Elks Association convention to be held May 19, 20 and 21.

The convention committee from the local organization reports early reservations are coming in for the convention and it is expected to be one of the largest ever conducted by the Elks Association.

Following the regular meeting a social session was enjoyed at which time a buffet luncheon was served.

It was also announced a large class will be initiated into the lodge on May 17.

Less This Month To Dependents

JEFFERSON CITY, April 27—(AP)—Missouri's payments for aid to dependent children will take another sharp drop this month.

Approximately 10,450 checks totaling about $201,721 will be mailed late this week—two weeks after their normal mailing date.

The average payment per family of about $19.27 will be 35 per cent under the average amount of $30.18 for January—the last month before the legislature's cut in temporary appropriations forced a sharp paring of checks.

The April reduction under the $10 average family payment for March is due to the addition of some 2,000 cases to the rolls this month—most of them eligible since February but withheld from the rolls because of a funds shortage.

It was in February that payments were put on the basis of the $3,250,000 biennial ADC appropriation passed by the house. The commission had sought $6,453,000.

January's payments totaled $254,134, an average of $12.43 a child, compared with April's average of $8.16 a child .

Holds Police For Two Hours Tuesday Night

John Herndon Then Surrenders; Resists Tear Gas Attack

John Herndon, 1501 East Fifteenth street, surrendered peacefully to police Tuesday night after holding them at bay for two hours with a razor and resisting attempts to force him out of his house with "sickness" gas.

The police were called when Herndon, who weighs 250 pounds, apparently in a spell of temporary insanity, began walking around in his yard about 9 o'clock, yelling and shouting abusively about various of his acquaintances.

The police were unable to seize Herndon, who is about 45 years old, when they arrived, because of the razor he was flourishing. Herndon continued to walk around in his yard after the officers began to arrive, and told them "they weren't going to take" him.

By this time, a total of eight officers including Sheriff Marlin were on hand. They assembled ropes preparatory to tieing him down, when Herndon suddenly went into his house, announcing that "the meeting is over."

Barracades Door

The police didn't think so. They went up to the door and told Herndon to come out. He said he wasn't coming, and piled furniture against the door.

The officers then brought up a tear gas gun and shot a gas bomb through the back door. Herndon ran to the front of his house as they fired another tear gas bomb.

When the officers entered the house to get Herndon they found him in a front bedroom, lying on the bed with a wet towel around his face. The towel had enabled him to withstand the tear gas but several of the officers who came in the house were almost overcome.

No Further Trouble

Herndon surrendered without giving the police any further trouble. He was handcuffed and taken to the county jail. A large crowd of neighbors collected to watch the affair, attracted by Herndon's shouting.

Officers who assisted in taking Herndon were Lawrence Englund, Emmett O'Brien, Joe Gresham, Anson Finnell, Ed Young, Herman Fischer, and deputy sheriff Clyde Coppers.

Herndon spent today in "Big Four" of the county jail, singing religious songs and talking, quietly however, on religious subjects.

The law requires a five days notice before a sanity hearing can be held before the county court, but as soon as the necessary time has expired such a hearing will be conducted, and if the court believes it advisable Herndon will be sent to the state sanitarium at Fulton for treatment.

Two Runs By Fire Companies

The fire companies this morning made two runs, the first to the residence of Carl Wollett, 220 West Sixteenth street, where a curtain in the kitchen had caught fire from an electric stove. Damage of about $20 resulted.

At 11:46 o'clock this morning the companies made a run to 1617 South Grand avenue, residence of W. Ashbrook, where sparks from a burning flue had set fire to the roof of the building. Damage of about $5 resulted.

George Helms, 1415 South Ohio avenue, is critically ill.

Homes Show Fashion Prevue Indicates Skirts Are Up

Skirt lengths, as indicated at the Spring and Summer Fashion Prevue staged last night at the Sedalia National Homes Show and Exposition, are definitely short, from 15 to 17 inches off the floor.

The newest in styles, shown by Connor-Wagoner's Inc., were modeled by Dorothy Lang's Debutante's, girls in one of the acts presented each afternoon and night from the exposition stage in the coliseum of the Missouri State Fair grounds.

Utility dresses, daytime street wear, cool frocks for the warmest summer days, afternoon frocks and formals were types of styles modeled. Featured colors were orchid shades, yellows and aquas. There were also effective black and white ensembles. Evening dresses, of course, were long and full-skirted.

The importance of stripes, not only in the materials but for trimmings was evident. Two-color combinations, and jacket dresses were featured. The jackets, some in contrasting colors, were shown in the briefest models and also in hip-lengths.

There was a noteworthy trend toward cheerfulness and femininity in styles.

The fashion prevue was presented during the colorful stage attraction, which last night had a change of numbers by the acts, who offer chorus ensembles, dance specialties and acrobatic novelties, assisted by a band.

Mrs. Florence Elliott, manager of the Connor-Wagoner store in Sedalia, was in charge of the style show. Members of the organization from various surrounding towns in central Missouri were also present. Shoes for the costumes were furnished by Demands.

A cooking school will be conducted under the auspices of Caldwell's electric shop this afternoon at the exposition. Two persons will be admitted for the price of one admission. Saturday night the grand prizes contributed by the exhibitors will be given away.

Sedalia Girl In Bed; Year Is Up

Mildred Wilkerson, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Wilkerson, 223 East Howard avenue, was the center of interest Sunday morning when she left her bed at the Mercy hospital in Kansas City for the first time in almost a year, and attended Sunday school at the Central Christian church, 2700 Wabash avenue.

The little girl has been undergoing treatment at the hospital for a calcium deficiency, which has made it necessary for her to remain in bed. She went to the church and back to the hospital in an ambulance.

She was the center of attention from the members of the intermediate boys' and girls' classes of the Sunday school, who have taken an interest in her almost since she arrived here. They gave her a corsage and a box of candy.

Mildred may be able to return to her home in Sedalia this week. A new story concerning her long-awaited visit to Sunday school appeared on the front page of the Kansas City Times Monday morning.

Ask 10,000 In Damage Suit

A $10,000 damage suit, filed by Sophia A. Bay, of Cole Camp, against the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway company and A. G. Darrell, engineer on that road, was brought to Pettis county Wednesday on a change of venue from Benton county.

The damages are asked for the death of Dr. Harry Bay, of Cole Camp, who was killed October 27, 1938, one mile north of there when his car was hit by a Rock Island train.

The petition alleges the sign at the crossing where Dr. Bay was struck, is located so that approaching cars are unable to see it. The peition also claims that the track at the crossing runs through a ditch built by the railroad, which hides oncoming trains from the road.

The suit is filed against James E. Gorman and Joseph B. Flemings, trustees for the railroad. C. P. Junge, Edwin F. Brady and F. M. Brady, all of Cole Camp, are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Marched To Death

Robert Kenyon, 24, who was executed early this morning in the lethal gas chamber at Jefferson City for the kidnap-slaying in 1937 of Dr. J. C. B. Davis.

Gas Chamber Death Of Killer Described By Sedalia Doctor Who Was Present

By Dr. A. L. Walter, Sedalia Physician who witnessed the execution.

Special To The Democrat.

"When Robert Kenyon was executed early this morning his lips were moving as though he were saying something, praying perhaps.

"I attended the execution with H. C. Davis, Sedalia, son of Dr. J. C. B. Davis who was killed by Kenyon in 1937."

"About 50 witnesses gathered in the waiting room at the penitentiary late last night. We were taken into the execution gallery at 11:45 p. m.

"Kenyon was brought in about 12:01 o'clock this morning. He was pale, trembling very much, but seemed in fairly good control of himself.

Warden Talked To Him

"When he came into the chamber the warden stepped in and talked to him. I couldn't hear what they said but Kenyon replied to him. His face was grim, his lips were rather pale.

"Then he was blindfolded. He had nothing on but shorts.

"The warden stepped out. The doors to the chamber clanged shut, loudly.

"Then the gas was turned on—it came up slowly like a fog.

"When it got to the level of his mouth he seemed to be fighting for breath.

"In 52 seconds, by my stopwatch, he became unconscious. But he wasn't dead then.

"After about a minute and a half he moaned and twitched conclusively. Then his head was thrown back violently and dropped forward on his chest.

"He was dead then.

Spectators Calm

"The spectators were calm during the execution. Kenyon was left in the chamber for 15 minutes Then fans were turned on and the gas expelled. It had come out of the floor under the chair Kenyon was strapped to."

Earlier in the afternoon, Dr. Walter told the Democrat, Kenyon had confessed to one of the guards that "I done it," referring to the slaying of Dr. Davis. During his trial, Kenyon had never definitely admitted his guilt although the circumstantial evidence against him was iron clad.

Writ Grant In Donnelly Case

KANSAS CITY, April 27—(AP)—Cheers and showers of confetti floated from the Donnelly Garment company's plant here today as employes expressed joy concerning the federal court injunction against the International Ladies Garment Workers' union.

Shouts of gaiety replaced the hum of machines when workers arrived at the plant. Judge Andrew Miller's opinion granted the company and the Donnelly Garment Workers' union an injunction against the ILGWU.

The workers formed circles and danced while officials and supervisors looked on. One of the milling young women fainted. Soon the singing and gaiety slowed down as the workers began their tasks.

KANSAS CITY, April27—(AP)—An out-of-town federal judge hearing a labor suit here added his voice today to the many that have criticized the Kansas City police department.

Judge Andrew Miller of Fargo, N. Dak., in granting an injunction against "unlawful picketing" sought by the Donnelly Garment Co. against the International Ladies Garment Workers union, charged today heads of the police department "have actually connived in truth and in fact with the lawless elements of your city."

Judge Miller's opinion enjoined the union from directing fraud or violence at the Donnelly company or the Donnelly Garment Workers' union, and from carrying out a secondary boycott against the company's products.

He said only one serious question was raised in the case:

Whether the local authorities are willing and able to protect the plaintiff's property and rights from violence and fraud.

Then he referred to a strike at two other garment plants in 1937, when he said evidence showed "at least 70 policeman" did not keep order. The police administration since has changed hands.

"Is it possible," he asked, "that a city the size of Kansas City with at least 70 policeman available could not eject x x x 30 or 40 or 50 obstreperous females, not in any wise armed?

"I do not believe that those policemen were actually in good faith trying to dispense that mob."

The judge said "I do not mean to criticize those policemen" but "their superiors knew what was going on down there."

Ask Nearly Billion and Half For Year's Relief

President Sees Gain To Lessen Unemployed

WASHINGTON, April 27—(AP)—President Roosevelt asked congress today for a relief appropriation of $1,477,000,000 for the twelve months period beginning next July 1.

In a message saying that substantial gains were being made in the drive to reduce unemployment, Mr. Roosevelt said his recommended figure for the next fiscal year represented a reduction of one-third below the approximately $2,250,000,000 he said was appropriated for the current year.

He said $1,447,000 would permit employment of "slightly more than an average of 2,000,000 persons" during the next year.

"Barring unforeseen and unpredictable developments," the president told congress, "we are justified in exploring an upward trend in the volume of employment between now and June 30, 1940, and the sum just named represents my judgment as to the amount that should be provided on the basis of that expectation."

With this appropriation, Mr. Roosevelt asked that any unexpended balances left to the WPA out of its current funds be reallocated for use in the coming twelve months period.

Against Major Changes

The president came out against any major changes in the works progress administration set-up, other than those administrative revisions which he outlined in his "reorganization plan number one" submitted to congress earlier this week.

"It is my opinion that the operations of the works progress administration during the next fiscal year" he, said, "should be carried on much as at present but with the reduction that will be possible because of expected increases in private employment and a consequent decline in the need for work relief.

"Organizational changes which I expect to be made under the authority granted in the recent reorganization act will, I anticipate, make possible important economies resulting from the coordination of the operation of various federal agencies which are engaged in carrying out of projects."

Stand Against Doles

The president reaffirmed his stand against payment of doles as a substitute for wages paid to relief workers and also flatly stated opposition to any system of relief grants by the federal government to the state. Such grants have been advocated by many Republicans and other congressional critics of the present relief set-up.

"I believe," Mr. Roosevelt told congress, "that such a system (of grants) has as many disadvantages as there are local political units in the nation."

The chief executive expressed the hope that the investigation of WPA now being conducted by a house committee " will be guided along constructive lines, and if this is done I feel sure that its outcome will be to demonstrate the wisdom of the measures which have been adopted to meet the needs of the unemployed."

Regarding distribution of WPA funds Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Any formula that may be devised for this purpose and written into legislation should take in account not only the factor of population, but also the constantly changing economic and unemployment conditions in various sections of the country.

"Allocation should be made on the basis of jobs to be provided and not on the local basis of funds to be distributed.

Furthermore, the formula should not be too rigid and should permit a substantial amount of administrative discretion in order to provide sufficient flexibility to meet special situations and relief crises.

"The matter of the contributions of sponsors to works progress administration projects has been satisfactorily covered by the provisions of the emergency relief appropriation act of 1938, which placed a limit on the amount of federal funds that can be used for purposes other than the payment of wages. I suggest a continuation of this practice rather than the imposition of a percentage basis on which sponsors would be required to participate."

Funds for NYA

In the same message, the president requested an appropriation of $123.000,000 for the next fiscal year for the national youth administration and also an appropriation of $123,000,000 for the farm security administration. He asked that unexpended funds remaining to these agencies be carried over into the next year.

He recommended appropriation $1,350,000 for the Indian service for continuing Indian rehabilitation.

Papen's Appointment Indicates Hitler's Game

How Turkey feels about the advent of Franz von Papen as special envoy from Hitler's Reich, we wouldn't know. If we were Turkey, we wouldn't be much pleased.

Von Papen has a long record in public life, and such of it as has been laid bare is not very reassuring to any country to which he is sent. The United States knows from personal experience.

Von Papen was German military attache here when the World War broke. He was, and is, a handsome, cultured, urbane citizen of the world, and his glittering Prussian captain's uniform and gleaming monocle cut quite a swath in Washington society.

Unfortunately it soon became clear that the handsome Franz was not confining himself strictly to his business as military attache—at least not as such business had been understood up to that time. In those innocent days it was assumed that the privileges and immunities granted to diplomatic representatives implied that they would not monkey with the domestic affairs of the country to which they had been sent.

But Von Papen saw his duty otherwise, and was soon hip-deep in plots to blow up the Welland Canal, in attempting to "corner" various war supplies and interfere with munitions manufacture, and having a hand in the plot whereby Roger Casement tried to start a rebellion in Ireland.

The United States invited Von Papen to return home. His private letters had revealed his real opinion of the people among whom he had cut such a social dash. He referred to them as "these idiotic Yankees."

In bad odor at home because he had been caught, Von Papan was sent to Turkey where as a staff officer he helped lose the war there for the Turks.

Recalled to the government under Von Hindenburg and Hitler, he was sent to Austria. There he vigorously denied that he was intriguing for the fall of Austria, maintaining that "spiritual and cultural union," and not "the altering of frontiers" was the German object. This was shortly before the conquering German troops marched into Vienna.

Now he goes to Turkey, called from retirement at 59 because of his peculiar abilities. To what use he will put them in Turkey is best judged from their employment in the past.

At any rate, the Turks have one advantage. They, too, have met this charming gentleman before.

Matter of great concern, says President Roosevelt, is abuse in administration of parole system. Yeah, chief, and payroll systems, too.

One of these days a Joe Louis bout is going to last for three or four rounds. Then the promoters will demand that the customers also pay on their way out.

Into the window of a car driven by an Ohio couple flew a duck. Suppose then a game warden popped up from the running board and demanded: "Wherez yer license?"

A rule forbidding marriage of U. S. air corps reserve officers has been delayed until next year, because some of the boys have already promised to wed. After all, as long as they have won the girls with their uniforms, it would be a shame to make them back out for the other guys.

It Works

The reciprocal trade policies of Secretary Hull are already being vindicated. Hull has adduced figures to show that the 16 countries with which the United States has reciprocal treaties increased their purchases of American goods 39.8 per cent in 1936-38 as compared to 1934-35, while they increased their purchases of German goods by only 1.8 per cent during the same period.

Secretary Hull believes this is ample proof that the American trade policy of equal treatment and equal opportunity for all is well able to hold its own in competition with any aggressive form of trade yet developed.

Many people lose sight of the scope of Hull's policy in watching the detail of its working out. It is not merely a competitive method to offset other methods. It is grounded in the idea that freedom of trade means an increased volume of trade, whereas special barter and two-sided trade arrangements inevitably decrease the total volume of trade of the world.

Thus far, events have to a large extent vindicated Secretary Hull and his policy of seeking more instead of less intercourse between nations.

This Is A Howl

Did you ever look at the world about you and then feel an almost irrestible impulse to just go out into the street and howl like a wolf?

Most of us have probably felt that way from time to time. But we don't do it, being conservative, orderly and respectable folks.

Adam Wachowicz did.

In Buffalo, police answered a call from neighbors, and found Adam leading a canine choir of nearly 20 dogs, all howling in full voice. Adam loudest of all. It happened to be 4 a. m. of an otherwise peaceful Sunday morning.

Off to court went Adam, and the judge ordered him to stop howling for three years. Perhaps he figured that by that time we'll all be howling and it won't make any difference.

Sure it's silly. But we'll bet Adam feels better, at that.

The quarter-acre wheat field, the first to be grown within the confines of New York City in 65 years, is the inspiration of Mr. Marshall, and was planted in the face of many handicaps. Hundreds of yards of top soil had to be hauled from miles away.

This Week In Missouri History

Compiled by the State Historical Society of Missouri at Columbia
Floyd C. Shoemaker, Secretary
FREDERICK L. BILLON
Authority on the History of St. Louis and the Mississippi Valley

For more than three quarters of a century Frederick L. Billon, business man and civic leader, collected and classified historical materials relating to the State's early history. During the last decade of his life he published the results of his work, the annals of St. Louis from 1764 to 1821.

Frederick L. Billon was born in Philadelphia on April 23 (or 28?) 1801, one hundred and thirty-eight years ago this week. His father, although of Swiss origin, was born in Paris, and his mother was a French refugee from Domingo. Billon attended a private school for seven or eight years, but at the age of fourteen entered his father's watch and jewelry business. In 1818 depressed business conditions in eastern cities forced the family to emigrate to St. Louis.

The summer of 1819 was especially stimulating to young Billon, experiencing his first year on the great water highway to the northwest. The United States government was extending its military outposts beyond their former limits, old Fort Bellefontaine on the Missouri river. Major Stephen H. Long, in command of the Yellowstone expedition, took the steamboat Western Engineer beyond the present boundaries of the State of Missouri and Colonel Henry Atchison, with a company of United States infantry, established Fort Atchison, at Council Bluffs. During the same year Josiah Snelling established Fort Snelling, at St. Peters, on the upper Mississippi. These, together with additional movements of troops requiring the use of steamboats and other water craft, made a vivid impression on the memory of the young man who was later to become one of the outstanding historians of his adopted city.

The files of the Missouri Republican indicate Billion's varied business and civic activities during the decade of the 1820's. Two years after his arrival in St. Louis he became a member of the St. Louis Guards, a uniformed company of volunteer infantry, and by 1823 at least he had been advanced to the rank of captain. During the latter year he was also made a Mason and in 1827 he was secretary of the Missouri Royal Arch Chapter No. 1. Also during 1827, while absent from the city, he was elected alderman. The next year he was re-elected. Advertisements of his jewelry business show that he was an enterprising business man who made trips east periodically to replenish his stock of goods.

On the advice of his physician, Dr. William Carr Lane, Billon made a trip to Santa Fe and the Rocky Mountains in 1834. After his return he again became active in civic affairs. In 1851 and in 1852 he was nominated city counseller by Mayor Luther M. Kennett, and on each occasion was unanimously confirmed by the board of aldermen. He became the first auditor and general bookkeeper of the Missouri Pacific railroad, a position he held for five years. He then became the secretary and treasurer of the company and continued in its service until his resignation in 1863. From that year until 1895 he devoted his efforts to historical research and writing.

Years of painstaking labor made him an authority on the history of St. Louis and the Mississippi valley. His chief published works are two large volumes: the Annals of St. Louis in its Early Days Under the French and Spanish Dominations, published in St. Louis in 1886, and the Annals of St. Louis in its Territorial Days from 1804 to 1821, published there four years later. The second volume is a continuation of the first. They represent a valuable compilation of historical data on early St. Louis, upon which recent writers and historians have relied rather heavily for much of their materials.

Frederick L. Billon died in St. Louis on October 20, 1895.

He was one of a committee of five elected from fraternal organizations to assist in preparing a fraternal code now before the legislature.

Morning Session

After an invocation by the Rev. J. M. Russell, of Sedalia, yesterday morning, short talks were made by Ellsworth Green, secretary of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, Sterling C. Holston, of Los Angeles and Horace L. Rosenblum, Omaha, Neb., publicity director.

Mr. Holston, who is a national director and state manager of California, spoke on the future of Woodcraft, and the need for young men to take up the cudgels.

Mr. Rosenblum explained the duties of a publicity director, and the activities of the 8,000 camps in forty-four states.

Monday Afternoon

Ray B. Lucas, state insurance commissioner, was one of the principal speakers Monday afternoon. He expressed pleasure at having an opportunity to address the convention, stating that there had been a time when a prior commissioner would not have been at home at a fraternal organization convention. Mr. Lucas discussed freely, from a general standpoint, the fraternal insurance code, which is now pending in the legislature.

Paul J. Leyhe, president of the Missouri Fraternal congress and state manager of the Aid Association for Lutherans, told of the work of the state fraternal congress in preparing the insurance code for presentation to the state legislature.

Dr. A. D. Cloyd, medical director, of Omaha, Neb., spoke of the difficulties confronting life insurance companies and of the improvements made in medicine during the last fifty years.

"There have been times when insurance would not feel at home in a fraternal insurance society's convention, but I am one insurance man who does feel at home in this convention," Judge Ray B. Lucas, state superintendent of insurance, told the state convention of the Woodmen of the World at the Hotel Bothwell yesterday afternoon.

Judge Lucas also said that "now is a good time for the fraternalists to have an insurance code passed." The insurance code, he said, "is fair and it will perpetuate the life of the fraternals.

Legal Reserve Basis

"By December 31, 1940, every fraternal society must have all its certificates on a legal reserve basis," he announced. "The U. S. has 7 per cent of the population of the world, but it owns 70 per cent of the world life insurance, which amounts to 110 billion dollars."

Paul J. Leyhe, president of the Missouri fraternal congress and state manager of the Aid Asscciation for Lutherans, told of the work of the state fraternal congress in preparing the insurance code for presentation before the state legislature. "Fraternalism is making a strong comeback and will be as strong in the future as in the past," he said.

Dr. A. D. Cloyd, medical director, WOW, Omaha, Neb., spoke of the difficulties confronting life insurance companies and of improvements made in medicine during the last fifty years.

Report on Progress

R. E. Miller, of Omaha, Neb. national promotion director said that he had attended the state convention here six years ago, and four years ago was in St. Louis. He remarked on the splendid progress during the past six years. This progress, he said, is due to the fundamental principles upon which the organization is founded. We evaluate a man, he said, by his many qualities. and an institute is judged by the same standards. This organization has two main factors, one is protection, the other to raise the social standards of individuals and communities. We possess qualities of freedom, he continued, because our forefathers fought for them, and provided protection which we enjoy today.

The W. O. W., he said has $400,000,000 in life protection in force, and has already paid out enough, that if it was invested in small $5000 farms it would extend from New York to San Francisco to New Orleans, and back to New York again. The reserve is $128,000,000 he said, the strongest fraternal insurance society in the world.

The W. O. W. has done much to raise the standards of both the individuals and community, he said and he gave several specific examples where it had been done.

Mr. Miller spoke of the W. O. W. hospital at San Antonio where members, suffering with tuberculosis, may spend as many as 20 months receiving treatment free of charge.

Mr. Miller also referred to the membership campaign which began March 1 and will conclude April 30. It is in recognition of the fortieth anniversary of the national president, also the president's recognition of the fine work of the field men.

The speaker commended Past State Manager Claude Manlove for his good work and Dr. Neill, of Clinton, for assistance given in combatting adverse legislation.

A telegram was read to the convention from National President D. E. Bradshaw, expressing regret he could not be present.

National Report

National Director William Ruess of Omaha, gave his report, stating that world conditions, economic situations, lack of employment, and loss of faith by workers and industry have produced a greater desire for benefits payable to loved ones in the event of the member's death, but the same things have also produced a less amount of money with which to pay same.

"Our government," he said, "is not operated in all respects in the manner which we would suggest, nor has everything that has been done met with our approval. But, it is the greatest government in the world. It has given you and me the right to think the thoughts that are here expressed. It is the government which believes and guarantees unto us the right of a free press and a free speech.

It is not necessary for us, when speaking to a neighbor and friend to be wondering if we are speaking to one who shall report us and cause us to be interned in some concentration camp, or to speak with hand to the face in a whisper for fear that the word which we might utter would be heard. But here, in this great country of the United States we have the right, each one of us, to mount the rostrum, or stand on the street corner, and speak whatever is in our minds and to advance whatever plan we think is best for us individually or for the cold and powerful hand on us and withdrawing us from circulation."

Jail Recommendations By Many Grand Juries

The present county jail. 220 South Lamine avenue, always good for a paragraph in any Pettis county grand jury report, has had that distinction for a great many years. As far back as April, 1891, this same jail building was in need of repairs, according to a grand jury report on file in the circuit court. A strange coincidence too is that the report, picked out of the file by circuit clerk Bryan Howe the other day, was signed by William Courtney, foreman. He was the father of William R. Courtney, foreman of the grand jury which adjourned Monday afternoon.

Report In 1891.

The report of that date reads: "We the Grand Jury of Pettis county Missouri, make the following report to Hon Jno. E. Ryland, judge of the criminal court.

"We visited the county jail and find the inmates thereof reasonably well satisfied as to treatment and provision furnished and that the jail is in as good a sanitary condition as possible under the circumstances.

"The jail building is entirely too small and the ventilation exceedingly poor. New water closets are needed, new stable, coal and wood house also. We further report the present jail and accomodations therein furnished wholly inadequate and a disgrace to the county. Humanity demands that something be done to make more comfortable and healthy the place where the prisoners are confined and we respectfully recommend and urge that the present jail and grounds be sold to the best possible advantage, and other grounds purchased and a new and more commodious jail built at the very earliest possible date.

"In the present jail there are now confined in three very small cells fifteen prisoners. If the premises were sufficient in extent we are of the opinion that the prisoners serving sentences could be worked and the labor so utilized as to bring a fair income to the county. That the real estate on which the present jail is located is by reason of its location of great value and by selling the same, enough could be realized to purchase a much larger lot in a different part of the city and leave a good amount to be expended in aiding in the building of a new jail. Wm. Courtney, Foreman."

The above report was on lined paper, written in ink.

According to Ellis R. Smith, former Pettis county sheriff, the present jail building was utilized as such at least fifty-five years.

Grand Jury Finds Effort Exerted To Prevent Gambling

A Pettis county grand jury which investigated reports of indecent shows, gambling and liquor sales at the Missouri State Fair last fall, reported late Monday afternoon that it found no basis for indictments.

"We have made a thorough investigation," the jury's report said. "It is our opinion that the Fair authorities have made a conscientious effort to suppress gambling and so far as we can ascertain there was no violation of the liquor laws.

"Regarding immoral shows we find such shows did exist, and that they were conducted in a 'sub-rosa' manner, apart and aside from the regular shows. We do not believe that the State Fair officials had knowledge of these."

Violation of Contract

The report added that fair officials gave assurance they would make a diligent effort to prevent such shows in the future. The jury said that it was felt that such shows were conducted in violation of a contract signed by the carnival manager and the Missouri State Fair, and that the fault lies in the manager of the carnival rather than in the Fair officials.

The jury also reported that it had made a thorough and conscientious effort to obtain evidence as to any gambling which may exist in the county, but that the evidence obtained was insufficient to bring any indictments.

The jury inspected various public buildings in the county. It followed the custom of a long line of Pettis county grand jurys in stating the county jail should be replaced by a new building. They also said "the lights on both porches of the court house are in bad order and the floors of the porches need repairs."

Compliments County Home

The jury also reported on the county home. It said "we consider the county home is unusually well managed." It recommended that the wooden shingles on the building be covered with asphalt shingles.

The grand jury also examined various other phases of the county's business, finding no evidence to warrant any indictments.

The jurors also commented on the co-operation they received, saying "throughout our session we have been accomodated by the prompt service of any subpoenas which we have issued, and we have had the co-operation of the Prosecuting Attorney in all matters.

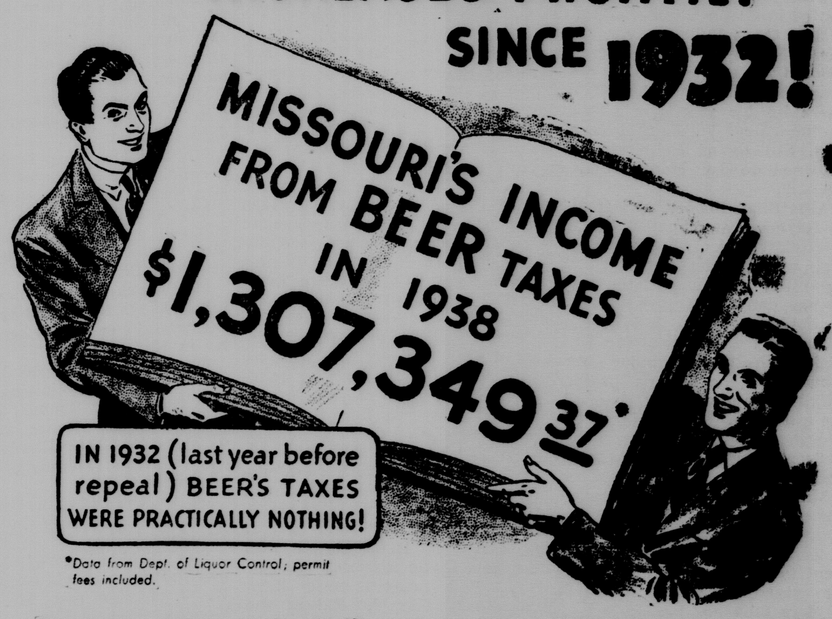
ONE INCOME THAT'S INCREASED MIGHTILY SINCE 1932!



*Data from Dept. of Liquor Control; permit fees included.

BEER helps even those who do not drink it! To the tune of a million dollars a day nation-wide, beer tax revenue reaches back into every community, to help pay for relief, for public works, for education... and to lift a burden that would otherwise rest directly on the taxpayers.

To this, add a million new jobs made by beer. And a 100 million dollar farm market.

How can we keep these benefits... for you and for us? Brewers of America realize this depends on keeping beer retailing as wholesome as beer itself. They want to help public officials in every possible way. They cannot enforce laws. But they can—and will—cooperate!

May we send you a booklet telling of their unusual self-regulation program? Address: United Brewers Industrial Foundation, 19 East 40th Street, New York, N. Y.

Mrs. Payne Tells Of South American Trip

Writes Her Mother, Mrs. Olive Lawson

Mrs. Olive Lawson, 318 West Broadway, has received an interesting letter from her daughter, Mrs. A. B. Payne, who with her husband is taking a trip through South American countries. Mrs. Payne was formerly Miss Ruth Lawson of Sedalia, now residing in Whittier, Calif.

"'We are now off the Chilean coast," writes Mrs. Payne. "Have made one stop in Chile, Arica. It is a very pretty and interesting town, German influence, and much cleaner than the towns of Peru. Peru is warmer so the people are lazier and their towns show it. In Peru all business houses close from one to three every day, during which time they sleep, I suppose. We enjoyed Lima a lot. Went in port for three days so had time to see it rather thoroughly. The old cathedral was founded by Pizzaro in 1535. He was the Spaniard who came in and took the town away from the Inca Indians. In front of the cathedral is a huge bronze statute of Pizzaro and inside the cathedral his remains are kept in a glass casket for all the people to gaze upon. He died in 1541 I think.

"Then there was the national museum with many of the old Inca relics. They made perfectly beautiful cloth and things of gold. They were noted for their gold. The old Franciscan monastary founded in 1620 by San Francisco Salama, was interesting, with its gardens, walks and barren rooms where the priests pray. In each of these rooms there is a cross and skull on a table, and a crudely built bed with no mattress springs, just wood. The most interesting thing about this monastery is that it is only open to women once in every hundred years, and this happens to be the time. The third time since 1620. It remains open for sixty days. We were very fortunate. In the museum of the monastery we saw one of the largest pearls in the world.

"The Bolivar hotel is very modern. It was there that we changed some dollars into soles, (soles being the Peruvian unit of money) five soles for one dollar. Two centavos for one cent. Food was very reasonable, we thought. We had dinner and lunch at an interesting place called La Cabanna.

Our next stop was in Mollendo, a dirty little Peruvian town. We spent little time on shore. It was fun, though, being hoisted up in the chair from the launch to the pier.

"We took a trip inland some one hundred miles via motor car to Arequipa, most of the way was over the mountainous roads of the Upper Andes. We now know why it hasn't rained there for thirty years. If it should rain those roads would wash right over the mountain side. After a rather hazardous trip we reached Arequipa. It was beautiful with Mount Misty, sometimes called the volcano of Arequipa towering over it. Donkeys, llamas and modern cars intermingle in the streets. Buildings are brightly colored. We took colored movies of this town, and were back on the boat at 8 o'clock very tired. The next stop was Arica. Today we stop at Coquimbo, then Valpariso is next."

Would Unify Relief Groups

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Senator Barkley (D-Ky), the Democratic leader, said today that President Roosevelt would send congress tomorrow a proposal to overhaul completely federal relief agencies.

There will be some central control over all relief activities, the senator said, but declined to say what agency would exercise it.

Barkley disclosed the reorganization proposal after the regular Monday conference between President Roosevelt and his legislative leaders.

Mr. Roosevelt will act, Barkley said, under provisions of the recently-enacted government reorganization bill.

Challenge By Senator Truman

ST. LOUIS, April 24.—(AP)—United States Senator Harry S. Truman left this challenge today "if Governor Stark runs against me in 1940 I'll beat the hell out of him."

Senator Truman, in an interview while attending a luncheon club meeting here Sunday, declared he would still be in the senate after the 1940 election. Stark has been mentioned as a possible candidate.

Referring to the election last year of Judge James M. Douglas of the state supreme court bench over Circuit Judge James V. Billings, Boss T. J. Pendergast's choice, Truman asserted:

"Why, if Douglas hadn't been backed by Stark, he would have had an even bigger majority."

Truman steered clear of extended comment on the situation in Kansas City, terming the present investigation of Pendergast's activities a "purely political" move. The senator, who was backed by Pendergast when he was elected in 1934, clarified his stand as follows:

"I haven't said I wouldn't desert a sinking ship. What I said then (when Pendergast was indicted by a federal grand jury on a charge of income tax evasion) and I say today is 'I won't desert a ship in distress.' There's a lot of difference."

Italy Claims An Axis Victory

ROME. April 24.—(AP)—Italy claimed a new victory today for the Rome-Berlin axis.

Week-end conversations at Venice between Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano and Yugaslav Foreign Minister Alexander Cincamarkovich ended yesterday with a statement promising "faithful collaboration" of Yugoslavia with Italy and Germany.

The same word—"faithful"—had been applied to Hungary's relations with the axis after talks earlier last week at Rome when Hungarian Premier Count Paul Teleky and Foreign Minister Count Stephen Csaky visited Premier Mussolini and Ciano.

The first formal demonstration of Yugoslavia's relations with Italy, political sources said, will be a visit by recent Regent Prince Paul to King Vittorio Emanuel next month.

A further tightening of the axis lineup was expected through arrangement of a non-aggression pact between Hungary and Yugoslavia—at odds because part of Hungary's loss was Yugoslavia's gain in the World War territorial settlement.

Revelation Due Ire Over Vote

KANSAS CITY, April 24.—(AP)—Anger over a lost vote, Mrs. Margaret C. Braun said, caused her to take letters bearing on the Missouri fire insurance compromise from a waste basket in the Washington home of Lambert O'Malley.

Mrs. Graun returned to Kansas City after a Washington municipal judge dismissed petit larceny charges filed against her by O'Malley, son of R. E. O'Malley, indicted with Tom Pendergast by a federal grand jury for alleged failure to pay income tax on money received in connection with the rate case compromise.

The letters were printed by the St. Louis Post Dispatch April 14.

Mrs. Graun took the letters, she said, "because they voted me in the Democratic primary last August for Billings when I meant to vote for Douglas."

Judge James M. Douglas, backed by Gov. Lloyd C. Stark, defeated Judge James V. Billings, backed by the Pendergast organization, in a Democratic supreme court primary last August.

The letters taken by Mrs. Braun were written, she said, by Mrs. R. E. O'Malley to her son. They discussed the grand jury investigation of the insurance rate case.

Mrs. Braun said she submitted the letters first to a federal bureau of investigation agent but told they would not be admissable as evidence.

She said she obtained a position as housekeeper in the O'Malley home several months after she was told by a precinct official her vote already had been cast for Billings.

"I began watching and waiting," she said.

Mrs. Braun, operator of three boarding houses here, said she had not previously worked as a domestic—but took the place in the O'Malley home especially to find out what she could.

Charges Unrest Due To NLRB

WASHINGTON, April 24—(AP)—Senator Bridges (R-NH) contended before the senate labor committee today that the labor relations board had caused "social unrest," had "fomented strikes" and had encouraged differences between labor and industry.

He added the board had done these things "rather than attempting to maintain industrial peace and solve the differences."

Appearing at a hearing on proposed amendments to the Wagner labor act, Bridges testified changes were "vitally necessary" to make the law "workable, equitable and fair, both to labor and industry."

The New Hampshire senator presented two officials of the Adam Hats Employes asscciation, of New York, who testified the CIO was picketing them and their employes because they had refused by a vote of 97 to 5, to affiliate with the CIO.

Joseph J. Marks, president of the association, and M. W. Postman, financial secretary, said they had been unable to obtain "relief" from the New York labor board because there had been no controversy between the association and the company. A state labor board attorney advised them, they said, they could not appeal to the national labor board for the same reason.

Chairman J. Warren Madden of the national board advised the committee there was nothing in the Wagner labor act to govern picketing by a minority. Senator Taft (R-Ohio) of the committee expressed the opinion the controversy was subject only to New York state jurisdiction.

"We have forgotten that this alien idea is what Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin promised their peoples.

Merchants Take Game From Ionia

Middleton Gave Six Hits While Team Mates Collect 23

If exhibition game results mean anything then the Sedalia Merchants are well on the road of having a real ball club for the 1939 season. Sunday the Merchants put the "tame" to Knoops Ionians by a 29 to 6 victory at Cole Camp.

Overfelt, Barnes and Zey put plenty of wood on the ball to send the sphere out for home runs, Zey's with the bases loaded. The former Athletic left and right fielder also collected two triples one of which was when the bases were filled. Livengood came in for some glory with a triple.

The Merchants became a little careless after the game had gotten well underway and Middleton pitching for the local club was touched for 6 hits and six runs. Middleton went the entire route and looked mighty good to the Sedalia manager, Vincent Siegel.

"Red" Knoop who has been boasting of his compressed air ball, had the compression removed by the Sedalians who touched him for twenty-three hits. Knoop's backing was somewhat weak for the opening of the season in an exhibition game.

The following Sedalia players saw action Sunday: Walker 2b; McMachian 2b; Taylor ss; Becker ss; Slayton rf; Carver rf; Zey lf; Barnes cf; Brownfield cf; Sumners c; Simons c; Overfelt 3b; Livengood 1b; Middleton p.

Ionia players were: Kelb 2b; B. Ragar rf; Knoop p; G. Wood 1b; White ss; L. Lademann 3b; Barenberg lf; V. Ragar cf.

The score:	R.	H.	E.
Sedalia	29	23	4
Ionia	6	6	6

Next Sunday the Merchants will go to Osceola where they play the second exhibition game of the season. At this time Neice, who pitched for Proctor and Gamble last season, and Gene Horner will take turns on the mound. Horner is returning from Louisiana where he practiced this spring.

Mel Moehle, last year centerfielder for the Columbia Merchants, will join the Sedalia club and will probably remain the rest of the season.

JEFFERSON CITY. April 24.—(AP)—Seach continued today for three convicts—one sentenced to a life term on a charge of murder 21 years ago—who walked away from the state prison saw mills, 15 miles west of here, last night.

Convicts working at the saw mills are considered trusties and a heavy guard usually is not posted.

The life termer was Ora Lewis, 43. Kansas City, charged with slaying a policeman in St. Louis. He was received at the prison April 11, 1918.

The other two were Ted Larue, 38, sentenced to 15 years on a robbery charge from Jackson County. and Christ Herdibru, 29, St. Louis, serving five years on a robbery charge.

Call Is Made For Recovery

GOP Demand Made As Hopkins Gives Message

WASHINGTON, April 24.—A Republican demand that congress lead the nation "back to recovery" shared attention today with a statement from Secretary Hopkins urging increased entrance of private capital into productive business.

While Rep. Martin (R-Mass), the minority floor leader, was offering a 12-point business program, Hopkins said last night in a radio message read by an assistant:

"We know that stimulation of recovery rests primarily upon resumption of the flow of private capital into productive enterprise.

"It has been this risk of investment funds—this willingness of business men to venture into new fields—that has supported a rising national income, increased our national wealth and provided jobs in the past."

Radio Broadcast

Hopkins' views were expressed on an international radio program sponsored by the United States world's fair commission.

Martin declared in a statement issued through the Republican national committee that the only administration action to encourage business since a speech by Hopkins two months ago was a recommendation against increasing social security taxes.

Contending that administration leaders were "torn by conflicting opinions" over business improvement, Martin proposed that members of congress support any legislation which would:

Out Of War

1. Keep the United States out of war.
2. Curb unnecessary spending.
3. Repeal the undistributed corporate earnings tax.
4. Revise the federal tax structure.
5. Repeal the President's monetary powers.
6. Amend the Wagner labor relations act to clarify "mutual obligations of worker and employer."
7. Define specifically the area of government competition with private business.
8. Provide new markets for agricultural goods.
9. Rehabilitate the railroads.
10. Survey the effect of recriprocal trade treaties on industry and business.
11. Clarify federal rules and regulations.
12. "Reject all experimental legislation not clearly helpful in promoting recovery, or which would subject agriculture, labor or industry to compulsory decrees of a federal bureaucracy."

The report recommended also that capital stock and excess profits taxes be eliminated; that small corporations be given $3,000 credit in computing their income taxes; and that old age annuity rates under the social security act be reduced from 1 to ½ per cent. The administration already has proposed a temporary reduction of the annuity rates but congress has not yet acted.

Auto Upset In Striking Tree

A Chrysler pickup truck driven by J. E. Miller, 1526 East Fourth street, overturned at Third street and Lafayette avenue, about midnight Saturday night, crashing into a small tree on the north side of Third street, tearing it up by the roots.

Miller accompanied by his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fisher and baby, was headed south on Washington avenue and had turned east on Third street. The driver said the left front wheel apparently locked which caused him to lose control of the car.

In the front seat of the car was Miller and his wife and the Fisher baby. Only slight bruises were received by the occupants who were taken to the Bothwell hospital for treatment.

Bill To Slow Up Continuances

JEFFERSON CITY, April 24—(AP)—A chorus of opposition from lawyer representatives developed today to a bill which would require prosecuting attorneys to submit written reasons before dismissing criminal cases or obtaining more than two continuances.

The measure, suggested by Judge Allen C. Southern's grand jury which indicted Jackson county Prosecutor W. W. Graves, was called up for perfection today by its author, Rep. Frank Lowry, (R) Cape Girardeau. The house recessed for lunch without voting on it.

Lowry called attention to the Gargotta case in Kansas City, continued by Graves 27 times and finally dismissed, and added:

"We couldn't have corrupt gangs of politicians in any county in the state if they didn't have control of the prosecutor's office."

Rep. W. O. Hanks (D) Joplin, replied "we should not pass a law which will cast a shadow across every prosecuting attorney in Missouri."

"Just because there is a little miscarriage of justice in Kansas City," added Rep. G. Purd Hays (R) Christian county, "no one should tell us to change our present law which is entirely satisfactory."

Reps. H. P. Lauf (D) Jefferson City and C. P. Tudley (D) Carter county, also spoke against the bill.

Rep. Lawrence Holman (D) Moberly, defended it, asserting "I served as prosecutor two terms in Randolph county and I'm familiar with the office. This measure will hurt no honest prosecutor. It may give a little needed prodding to some honest ones."
